

TARDY FIRMS TODAY
IN MASSACHUSETTS
FACE FEDERAL LAW

About 10,000 Corporations Have Filed National Tax Return, but Many Others Disregard It.

LIMIT HAS EXPIRED

Collector Gill Is Now Sending Final Notices Giving Delinquents an Opportunity to Escape Penalty.

Corporations in Massachusetts that failed to file their returns with United States Collector of Internal Revenue James D. Gill, in compliance with the federal corporation tax, at the expiration of the time limit Thursday evening, are today liable to prosecution by the United States.

So far as Collector Gill can determine, about 10,000 corporations in the Bay state have filed returns and will be taxed 1 per cent on whatever sum is left after the $5000 allowed by law has been deducted.

Collector Gill stated today that there are many required corporation returns not yet filed, some companies unquestionably in the belief that being in liquidation, process of dissolution, or inactive, no return is required. In this respect he says they are wrong, for returns are required from all corporations "not wholly extinct by law."

Such delinquent corporations known to Collector Gill or any called to his attention will be immediately served with the following notice:

"Attention is called to the provisions of section 28, act of Aug. 5, 1909, imposing a special tax on corporations, joint stock companies, associations and insurance companies; to the requirements of said section respecting the preparation and filing of annual returns by such corporations, joint stock companies, associations and insurance companies, and to the penalties imposed by said section in case of failure to make such returns, or for the filing of a false or fraudulent return.

"As the prescribed return has not been filed by your company, and as the time limit by said section 28 for the filing of such return has expired, you are hereby notified that, unless a full and complete return of your company is received at this office within 10 days from the date of this notice, an examination of your books and papers bearing upon the matters required to be included in such return will be made, pursuant to paragraph 4 of said section 28; and that the tax so ascertained to be due will be assessed, and all penalties incurred by your company enforced as provided by law."

The penalty imposed upon corporations that fail to make a return will be from $1000 to $10,000 fine, and the concern can also be made to pay an additional 50 per cent of the net profit for the year.

Collector Gill in discussing the subject today stated that the time for filing returns closed March 1, but as there were requests from many corporations for an extension of time he honored the requests by granting a time allowance until last night, March 31, at 4 p. m. Now he finds that with the additional 31 days many companies have disregarded the new federal excise law and consequently they, it is expected, in time will be dealt with harshly by the Washington authorities when Collector Gill reports their case to the commissioner of internal revenue. Collector Gill further stated that unless some corporations have filed returns in other districts by mistake, in that case he can excuse the company for the delay.

The work of checking up the corporations that have made returns will take many days. The entire force under Collector Gill will be required to work day and night until the work is completed. Until the checking is concluded it will be difficult to say how many returns have been filed out of the 12,000 applications sent out.

JUGAR CONTEMPT CASE OPENS.
NEW YORK—Argument in the contempt case against the American Sugar Refining Company for refusing to produce the books and contracts ordered by the court last February began before Federal Judge Lacombe. The case was brought on by the action of Charles R. Heike, secretary of the company, in refusing to present the books without being sworn.

CRANBERRY MEETING CALLED.
MIDDLEBORO, Mass.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the New England Cranberry Sales Company will be held in this town next Tuesday, when improvements to the company's property will be considered.

ADMIRAL SPERRY TO BE RETIRED.
NEWPORT, R. I.—Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, U. S. N., who has been on special duty in connection with the naval war college, will be retired today.

REGARD RE-ELECTION
VIRTUALLY ASSURED
FOR SENATOR LODGE

Candidacy of Butler Ames Is Not Considered Formidable by Adherents of the Present Incumbent.

DEMOCRATS IN HOPE

The friends of United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge are quite alert even now and appear to be well satisfied with the condition of his campaign for reelection. They admit that it is somewhat early to make predictions, but do not seem to apprehend at the present moment that there is any prospect of his defeat.

Notwithstanding the sanguine predictions of friends of Congressman Butler Ames, the supporters of Mr. Lodge have been unable to ascertain that any considerable number of members of the present Legislature are favorable to any other candidate. They believe that if the choice of a senator were to be decided by the present General Court, Mr. Lodge would be reelected by a nearly unanimous vote. They declare there are not more than two or three members of the present Legislature who are openly for Mr. Ames.

Thus far Mr. Ames is the only candidate who has entered the contest against Mr. Lodge. There have been reports that ex-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., would be willing to enter the field, but thus far he has not done so, and there seems to be great doubt if he will.

The friends of Mr. Lodge are said to be anticipating such a move in case Mr.

ATTORNEY BRANDEIS
PROTESTS REMARKS
AT BALLINGER TRIAL

WASHINGTON—Elmer E. Todd, now United States district attorney for Washington, was the first witness called today by Attorney Vertrees, counsel for Secretary Ballinger, before the congressional committee.

Mr. Todd was first mentioned in the investigation in the testimony given by L. R. Glavis, as being connected with the prosecution on behalf of the government in the Watson-Allen coal case. Mr. Glavis also asserted on the witness stand that Mr. Todd had advised him to delay making criminal prosecutions against coal claimants.

Mr. Vertrees' first questions were in relation to the omission of the name of R. A. Ballinger as counsel for the Watson-Allen claimants from the records in the case. Secretary Ballinger was at this time in private practice.

Mr. Todd said that the court record of the Watson-Allen case did not disclose that Mr. Ballinger had drawn any escrow agreements for the claimants.

TAKES MINTON CASE
TO DESCRIBE POWER
CIVIL SERVICE HOLDS

Well-Known Lawyer Indorses Sentiment Uttered by Professor Munroe at the Boston City Club.

POINTS OUT SCOPE

Admits That Law in the Matter Is Not Sufficient to Differentiate Clearly the Lines of Action.

Commenting today on the statement of Prof. W. B. Munroe of Harvard at the Boston City Club Thursday night, that "civil service at its worst is infinitely better than the spoils system at its best," a well-known Boston lawyer, familiar with the city hall, says: "Exceptions to the civil service law and special acts putting certain exceptions back under the law cause many interesting times in the office of the civil service commissioner. The appointment of John M. Minton as election commissioner in the city of Boston, which is now under consideration, calls attention to some of the misunderstandings that arise concerning the law. Inquiries are frequently received asking how certain officials may be brought under the law."

"Civil service," said Professor Munroe, "is not intended to secure the best men available. It is intended to eliminate the worst. If it produces the average man, it has done very well. I have never lost an opportunity to commend the civil service feature of the new Boston charter. I believe the mayor ought to be responsible for his appointees."

Continuing on the Minton case, the lawyer said:

"The election commissioner case comes under the law by special legislation, and even in this case some have asserted it was taken out of the law by exception. The Boston charter law requires that this election board be constituted politically under existing laws. This was said to give the power to the mayor to appoint a commissioner without confirmation by the commission, but as a doubt arose the question was referred to the commission. "The town of Brookline is under civil service by reason of a special law. Within a year the sealers of weights and measures were put under the law by the Legislature. These examples show one method of how an office or a class of men is brought within the law."

"Another method is provided under the original law. The commission may take any set of men or officers working for either the state or any city of the commonwealth and draw up rules concerning them, which upon the approval of the Governor and council places them under the provisions of the law."

"Many of the inquiries come from the towns, where the law does not apply. The commission has no power over the towns under the general law. If the towns adopt the provisions of the law of their own account, the commission will certify men to them for the fire

Farming Train Reaches Worcester Tonight

Addresses will be given at Horticultural hall following several stops.

INTERIOR OF CAR DEVOTED TO DAIRYING EXHIBIT.

The car has required but little change to make it suitable for lecture purposes. One end is fitted up as a laboratory with the necessary illustrative material at hand.

ENTHUSIASM among agriculturalists of the state has been greatly roused by the educational tour of the "Farming Special," over the lines of the Boston & Albany road, which started from Springfield March 30, and will end at South Framingham tomorrow night. The attendance has been large where stops were made for lectures, and the trip has been pronounced by those in charge to be in every way a success.

The itinerary today, after the train left Athol, included Templeton, Barre Plains, Ware, and for this afternoon, Palmer, 2 p. m., East Bookfield, 4:10 p. m., and will reach Worcester about 6 o'clock, where it will remain over night.

The farming special meeting in Worcester, this evening will take place in Horticultural hall. President Kenyon L. Butterfield of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, and Mayor Logan will be the principal speakers. Their addresses will be preceded by a stereoscopic lecture by Field Agent C. H. White.

William N. Howard of North Easton, secretary of the state grange, is with the train today.

J. D. Remington, special agent in the freight department of the New York Central lines, in an address Thursday night at Athol said that Boston was regarded as one of the best markets for all commodities in the United States. He added that the railroads were friends of the farmers instead of being enemies.

SECOND REGIMENT

Announcements for colonels and majors were not made at that time, but will be given out later by Military Instructor Col. George H. Benyon.

William C. Russell and the new claimant from Fresno, Cal., met in conference at 10:30 a. m., at the offices of Thomas W. Proctor, 15 Beacon street, the meeting lasting till shortly after noon, during which the new claimant underwent a severe cross-examination by counsel for William C. Russell. No information could be obtained as to the attitude taken by W. C. Russell toward the new claimant, the counsel, the new claimant and Mr. Russell declining to make any statement on the result of the meeting.

Although it was confidently expected that what transpired at the morning's session would soon be made public, no information was given out up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. It is believed that the conference will not be resumed this afternoon.

A conference between the counsel for the Fresno claimant and for William C. Russell was held at Mr. Proctor's office late Thursday at which there were present Ferdinand B. Almy, co-executor of the Russell estate with William C. Russell; John K. Berry, Eugene C. Upton and Thomas W. Proctor, counsel for the executors; and Senator George W. Cartwright of California and William Odlin, counsel for the Fresno claimant.

MANY PROPOSED TO RECEIVE
MEDALS OF NINETEEN FIFTEEN

Judges Are Having Difficulty in Deciding Those Worthy of Awards in Light of Numerous Recommendations, Urging Both Individuals and Institutions for Honor.

The board of judges which is to make the award of the "Boston-1915" medals for civic advance is receiving a great variety of recommendations regarding the accomplishments to which recognition should be given. It is intended that in other years the medals shall be awarded on March 30, the anniversary of the starting of the Boston-1915 movement.

But this being the first award, it was decided to allow the judges to make their selection among all the things done in the last five years for Boston's benefit; and the proposition before them is, they say, far from an easy one.

A large number of letters containing recommendations has been received, many of them from men and women who are leaders in the activities of the city. Among them the original finance commission and the Charles river basin commission are the most frequently recommended for special recognition of services. John Tetlow, principal of the Girls Latin School, thinks that the finance commission "richly deserves to receive such recognition;" and Arthur A. Shurtliff, the landscape architect, includes the Charles river basin commission, Charles W. Elliot, Robert S. Peabody and George R. Wadsworth, Dr. James C. White adds to the Charles river commission as worthy of recognition "the public lectures" given by the teachers of the Harvard medical school on Saturdays and Sundays.

HIGH COST OF LIVING
PROBE IN BAY STATE HAS SECOND HEARING

Commission Today Takes Testimony of Charles H. Jones of the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Company

OTHERS GIVE FACTS

Removal of Tariff on Hides and Its Effect on Price of Footwear Taken Up by the Manufacturers.

Removal of tariff on hides has prevented a greater advance in price of shoes. Manufacturers say that they will be satisfied with a profit of 8 cents a pair at the factory.

Charles H. Jones, prominent New England shoe manufacturer, places large measure of responsibility for high prices of shoes upon the "shoe machinery trust." "The industries of New England will be benefited by an increase of apprentices in the various trades."

Change of style in shoes adds to the actual cost of production. The increase of wages has not kept up with the increase of the cost of living.

The cost of shoes would be less if the individual workman were allowed to do as much as he desired.

The Massachusetts commission on the cost of living gave its second public hearing today at the State House with a small attendance. Among the speakers scheduled for today were Charles H. Jones of the Commonwealth Shoe & Leather Company, Andrew G. Webster, George E. Keith of Brockton, Edward Hamlin of the Metropolitan Coal Company, L. A. Crockett, W. A. Graustein of the Boston Dairy Company; Dwight P. Thomas of the Revere Sugar Refinery, A. H. Van Pelt of Armour & Co., and Mrs. Anna T. Steinhart.

"The shoe machinery trust is practically equal partners with us in our business," said Charles H. Jones before the commission. "We have to pay to the company in the way of royalties as much as we make ourselves on our shoes. We are now face to face with a problem of holding our own. In the past, because of the skill of the American workman and his fertility of invention we have been able to keep ahead of other countries in the production of shoes at a low cost. Nowadays though the American inventive ability is stifled by the trust and with machines of equal type the world over the competition will reach us."

"The machinery trust will deny this, of course," said Mr. Jones, "but I am convinced this stifling has been a most serious matter. The important machinery, the machinery which makes for lowering of costs, has not been improved for years and I doubt if it will be till those we have are worn out. Improvements have been made only in secondary machinery." Mr. Jones, in his testimony, gave statistics as to the cost of the higher grades of shoes. He said that shoes which retail from $4 to $4.50 a pair cost between $2.50 and $2.60 at the factory, about 60 cents of this cost being the labor cost. The $3.50 shoes cost approximately $2.30 at the factory, he said.

Commissioner McSweeney asked if this difference in cost price and selling price does not of itself indicate that some one is getting an excessive profit. Mr. Jones replied that in his opinion it does not, as this difference is easily to be accounted for. The office expense to the manufacturer averages about 20 cents for each pair of shoes, and the retailer must get about 30 per cent of the selling price to meet his expenses without any profit.

This percentage, he admitted, has increased in late years, and a sufficient number of clerks must be employed so that no customer will be obliged to wait when he enters a store. He said he believed the retail price of the higher grades of shoes has advanced about 50 cents a pair in the past two years. Asked if the reduction in the hours of labor has increased the price of shoes, Mr. Jones said it undoubtedly has.

Andrew G. Webster, a leather merchant of Boston, was asked what the effect of the removal of the tariff on hides had been. He said if it had not been removed leather today, and consequently shoes, would have advanced even more than they have. The difference between foreign and domestic hides, he said, amounted to about 15 per cent, and the public received the benefit of this difference. Domestic hides, he said, are becoming scarcer every year, but there seems to be a fair supply in the markets of the world. The price of hides is likely to continue to increase, in his opinion. An interesting fact brought out by Mr. Webster was that the price of hides does not follow the cost of meat, as he has often found it the case that when meat is cheapest hides are dearest, and vice versa.

George E. Keith of Brockton, said in the main he agreed with what the other speakers had said as to the cost of shoes and leather. The men in his factory, he stated, did not produce as many shoes as they reasonably could. The reason for this he declared is an understanding among the men that a man was only to do a certain amount of work in a day.

Taormina Invites the Roosevelts

Naples is American mecca, but party may halt to see Mt. Etna

PANORAMA OF TAORMINA AND SICILIAN MOUNTAINS.

This city, which is situated about 25 miles from Mt. Etna, is one of the fashionable resorts of Europeans.

NEW YORK—The Sun in a cable despatch from Naples says: The proprietor of the Hotel San Dominico at Taormina has received a telegram from Colonel Roosevelt asking that accommodations be reserved for himself and family today. The colonel will break his itinerary on his voyage to Naples in order to witness Mt. Etna in eruption.

NAPLES—Theodore Roosevelt and his family, who are now on their way to this city to begin a visit of nearly two weeks, have announced their program for only about half of that period.

It is now reported here that the time from April 7, when the official program of entertainment ends, until April 13, when the party leaves Italy for Vienna, will be spent with Mrs. Roosevelt's sister, Miss Carey, who has an Italian villa and who spent several weeks with M. A. Roosevelt during her visit to this country last year, in Florence, Naples and Rome.

This city continues to be the mecca of Americans awaiting the coming of the ex-President tomorrow. Most of the citizens of the United States who have been along the Riviera and at various places throughout Italy are headed this way or have already arrived, according to reports, and hotel rates and private accommodations are practically exhausted. Premiums for quarters will likely be paid by tonight.

PARIS—Preparations for the visit of Mr. Roosevelt, who will be in Paris throughout the week of April 21 to 28, continue. In addition to the set functions already announced visits to the News of the World Told by Cable and Correspondence

OPPOSITION MOVES FOR STRONG SECOND CHAMBER IN BRITAIN

LONDON—The official opposition amendment to the resolutions of the House of Lords, moved in the House of Commons by Sir Robert Bannatyne Finlay, declares in favor of a strong and efficient second chamber and expresses willingness to consider proposals for the reform of the upper house, but declines to proceed with the government proposals.

Winston Spencer Churchill, the home secretary, made an important contribution to the debate Thursday. He declared that when the veto resolutions were disposed of they would advance with the budget, regardless of consequences. Unless the House of Commons carried the budget, it was idle, he said, to look to the King or to the country to carry the veto bill, but he predicted that at the proper time and under the proper circumstances they would succeed in carrying both the veto and budget measures to the steps of the throne.

"The time for action," he said, "has arrived. Since the Lords have used their veto to affront the prerogative of the crown and have invaded the rights of the Commons, it has become necessary that the crown and Commons acting together should restore the balance of the constitution and restrict forever the veto power of the House of Lords."

LONDON—The government apparently has made up its mind to bring political matters to an issue early in May. In the House of Commons late Thursday Premier Asquith announced two guillotine motions, the first to be made on April 4, altering a specific period for the discussion of the veto resolutions; and the second designating the time to be given to a consideration of the budget. The general opinion in the lobby was that this arrangement portended a general election within six months.

JAPANESE PREMIER EFFECTS COMPROMISE WITH LEADERS

(Special to The Monitor.)
TOKIO—Both the officials of the empire and the land owners will get financial relief from the budget this year, since the premier has effected a compromise with unionist leaders, which preserves the former's projected increase of official salaries and embodies at the same time the reduction in the land tax, which the land owning class has looked forward to as the beginning of the amelioration of the burdens imposed as a result of the Russian war.

Both sides were firmly convinced that the time had come for the lightening of those burdens, but the difference was as to how to proceed. The Unionists advocated a reduction of the land tax by one per cent of the assessed value of the land, the ministry proposed to leave the land tax untouched and to approach the question from the direction of the income tax, the transit tax, the consumption tax on sugar and textile fabrics and some minor imposts. The heaviest cut would have been in the income tax, from about 32,000,000 to 27,500,000 yen. The total relief to the taxpayers, according to the ministry's plan, would have been about 9,000,000 yen.

The political parties, however, had set themselves to securing a diminution of the land tax to the extent of 12,000,000 yen out of 85,000,000. The ministry proposed, on the other hand, to make an addition to the ordinary expenditures by increasing official salaries 30 per cent, involving an annual increase in the budget of nearly 11,000,000 yen. The need of increasing the salaries was conceded, but it was difficult to increase the officials' pay and leave the farmer unrelieved of any part of the land tax. The advocates of land tax reform commanded practically every vote in the lower house, but a budget adopted on such a basis would have been rejected by the peers, resulting in either a compromise or a deadlock. The Emperor might have dissolved the Diet, thus leaving the budget of the previous year in force, to the disadvantage of the farmer, or the ministry might have resigned, placing the responsibility for the failure of the fiscal policy upon the Unionists. The premier, however, invited the party leaders to his residence and after a seven-hour conference it was agreed that the land tax reduction demands should be cut down one fifth and the increase of official salaries by one sixth, the income tax and the transit tax being left untouched and some minor economies effected to provide the funds.

BRITISH FIRM GETS CONTRACT FOR ARGENTINE DOCKYARD

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—Messrs. Vickers Sons & Maxim, the great English shipbuilding firm, are busily occupied in constructing and fitting out naval construction works in Spain, and they have now entered into a contract with the Argentine government for construction of a dockyard on the Rio Santiago, La Plata. When completed the scheme will constitute the largest shipbuilding enterprise undertaken in Argentina.

CANADIAN HOUSE FOR CABLE BILL

OTTAWA, Ont.—To place the control of the rates and facilities of ocean cable companies under the board of railway commissioners the House of Commons has passed two bills introduced by Postmaster General Lemieux. The government expects the Senate to pass the bill at this session of Parliament.

The act will then take effect by proclamation, the government hoping for concurrent British legislation which will provide for control of cable rates from England to Canada. Without such concurrent legislation the commissioners could control only rates from Canada to Great Britain. It is the hope of the government to have the press rate reduced from 10 cents to 6 cents a word.

SIGNOR LUZZATTI SELECTS CABINET

ROME—The cabinet formed by Signor Luzzatti is announced as follows:
Premier and minister of interior, Signor Luigi Luzzatti; justice, Signor Fani; foreign affairs, Marquis A. di San Giuliano; treasury, Signor Francesco Tedesco; finance, Signor Fazio; war, General Spingardi; marine, Admiral Leonardi; public instruction, Signor Credaro; public works, Signor Sacchi; agriculture, Signor Raineri; and posts and telegraphs, Signor Cuffelli.

GERMAN CRUISER LEAVES LIBERIA

BERLIN—The German cruiser Sperber has left Cape Palmas upon the orders of the Liberian authorities, according to the latest advices from Liberia.

The German offer to land a detachment and quell the outbreak of the natives is said to have so incensed the Liberians that they ordered the Sperber to leave Liberian waters within 36 hours or "take the consequences." The situation is said to be improving.

NAVAL BASE GOES WEST

BERLIN—Germany has inaugurated a new era in naval strategy. It was announced some time ago that she would remove her battleship base from the Baltic to the North Sea, and the first squadron of the high seas fleet, consisting of eight battleships and four cruisers, has now left Kiel and passed through the North Sea canal for maneuvers in the neighborhood of Heligoland.

LECTURER POINTS OUT RICHNESS OF MOROCCAN COUNTRY

(Special to The Monitor.)
PARIS—If Parisians based their knowledge of Morocco on what they read in the daily newspapers they might think that the sole purpose of this colony was to provide the necessary material for debates and dissensions. Another side of Morocco was, however, shown in a recent address to the Geographical Society by M. Louis Gentil, the well-known explorer and the master of lectures at the faculty of sciences. He enlarged on the natural riches of the country, its forests, its mines and its agricultural possibilities. Not only do almond and olive trees thrive there, but the black soil lends itself admirably to the cultivation of grain crops. These would be even more valuable, M. Gentil explained, if a system of irrigation were adopted. There is also a future for the cotton industry as in Algiers.

Entering into technical details M. Gentil showed that the Atlas mountains were a prolongation of the Alps, just as the African ranges, continuing under the Atlantic, reappear in the Canary and Madeira Islands.

M. Doumergue, the minister of public instruction, who introduced M. Gentil, recalled the part the explorer played in the massacres of Marrakesh, where he acted as peacemaker. Mme. Gentil accompanied her husband on the trip from which he has just returned.

SAYS WILL RETIRE FROM PARLIAMENT

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—No man in England has done as much for postal reform as Mr. Henniker Heaton, the well known member of Parliament for Canterbury. He is the real author of imperial penny postage, and the pioneer of cheap postage in general. He has declined any recognition for his work in the shape of a title, and has signified his intention of retiring from Parliament. This has roused Canterbury to attempt to mark in some way its appreciation of his services, with the result that both parties have combined to offer to return him at the next election entirely unopposed as the representative of the metropolis.

MELBOURNE—Elwood Mead accompanied by the Hon. Hugh Mackenzie will leave in May for Great Britain and the United States in connection with the scheme for securing immigrants for the country.

Constitution for Alsace Loraine

(Special to The Monitor.)
BERLIN—The announcement has been made by the imperial chancellor, Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, that a bill concerning the constitution and the development of the constitution of Alsace Loraine has been drafted and made ready for presentation to the federal council.

Alsace Loraine has at present two distinct governments so far as legislation is concerned, for it is subject to the imperial legislative machinery so that the Emperor, the Reichstag and the federal council can make for it any laws they please, while it has also a separate but not independent government of its own. This government consists of a viceroy representing the Emperor, a council of state and a chamber of 58 delegates. One of the resolutions proposed in the Reichstag was to the effect that the constitution and administration of Alsace Loraine should be altered in such a manner as to raise Alsace Loraine to the dignity of a federal state on a footing of absolute equality with the other federated states of the empire. The constitution will be based on universal suffrage.

The members for Alsace and Loraine who supported the resolution maintained that they had earned the right to be independent. They did not want to form a republic; all they wished for is equality and the right to manage their own affairs. Herr Gregoire declared: "We wish to be first-class Germans. We wish to be a German federal state and not to remain always on appendage. . . . Grant us constitutional rights, worthy not only of ourselves, but also of the great German empire."

The chancellor made a statement to the effect that a bill had been drafted dealing with the development of the constitution of Alsace Loraine, but that it was impossible for him to make a public statement on the subject before it had been considered by the federal council. It appears that the announcement made by the chancellor of the drafting of the bill referred to was quite unexpected, and Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's report on the scheme is being awaited with the greatest interest. France especially, perhaps, is surprised at the statement made in the Reichstag by the imperial chancellor. In France no opinion either of satisfaction or of the reference has as yet been expressed, and indeed it is likely that silence will be maintained on the subject until some information as to the details of the constitution are available.

A resolution moved by Dr. Gregoire that the future representatives of the people in Alsace Loraine should be elected by universal, equal, direct and secret suffrage, with the proportional representation system, has been adopted by a narrow majority in the Reichstag.

PACIFIC DIVISION OF CANAL IS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

(Special to The Monitor.)
MIRAFLORES, Canal Zone—With the completion sometime during the month of steam shovel excavation in the upper lock here will end practically all excavation by steam shovels in the Pacific division, with the exception of the shovels at work below Pedro Miguel locks and those employed in loading rock at Ancon quarry, until the lower lock pit here has been made ready for dry excavation.

Only one shovel is at work in the upper Miraflores lock, and this has been engaged in excavating for the east side wall. Other operations in progress in this lock consist of the removal of a small quantity of earth by crane from the south end, channeling for the lateral culverts and the concreting and riprapping of the sides of the lock pit in places where the material is earth and liable to wash. The method employed to guard against this is to build a low concrete wall on rock at the foot of the slope and to riprap the remainder of the bank, sloping it gradually to the top. As the greater portion of the lock site is cut out of solid rock, no protective measures in those sections are necessary.

Two beam cranes are to be transferred from Pedro Miguel to Miraflores and will be operated one on each side of the locks. Considerable progress has been made in preparing sites for them. The storage trestles will extend along the sides of the locks here and will be 24 feet high, with a total length of 7500 feet, affording a large amount of storage space. When the two temporary concrete mixers at the Pedro Miguel locks are relieved by the permanent mixers they will be brought here and set up for use in furnishing concrete for the construction of the lateral culverts and floors. They will probably continue to be used until the work at Pedro Miguel has advanced to a point that will permit the removal of a part of the crane equipment to Miraflores. According to present plans it is proposed to begin concrete construction at the Miraflores locks about June 1 of the present year.

AUSTRALIAN WATER SUPPLY.

(Special to The Monitor.)
PERTH, West Australia—Some 800 miles of piping have been laid down from Perth to Kalgoorli and other cities in connection with the great water supply scheme in western Australia, and the corrosion of these pipes is the cause of considerable discussion among the authorities, especially since some experts from London have reported that to remedy the trouble, a sum of $935,000 must be spent.

GOVERNMENT MAY TURN PERSIA INTO A SECOND EGYPT

(Special to The Monitor.)
TEHERAN—The internal affairs of Persia can scarcely be described as very satisfactory. That it can be possible for armed bands to wander through some parts of the country with impunity, is of itself sufficient evidence of lack of law and order. What will be the future of Persia? There are those who say that the country will eventually be absorbed by either Russia or England unless the two countries agree to make her a second Egypt. Persia is in need of money and the government of the boy Shah has for some time been endeavoring to obtain a loan. There is, however, no country willing to come to terms unless an effective control over the finances, customs and gendarmerie, as well as over certain taxes, is guaranteed. Concessions for railways and mines would also be demanded, but these would not be granted to foreigners.

The presence of the comparatively few remaining Russian troops is said to cause considerable dissatisfaction among the population, but since two bands of about 3000 well armed men are operating in the neighborhood of Tabriz unmolested by the Persian government, it is hardly surprising that the Russian government refuses to withdraw the small force of 500 Russian soldiers. Indeed, the Persian government has been notified that unless steps are taken to deal with these disorderly bands more Russian troops will be moved nearer the frontier from Tiflis. The British are said to be not more popular in the country than the Russians, while the Germans perhaps enjoy most sympathy.

A reply to the proposals of the British and Russian governments for a joint advance is daily expected, but it is not considered probable that the Persian government will accept the conditions laid down.

Meanwhile Rahim Khau, the leader of the tribes that fought for the cause of the Shah, is still a fugitive, his plea for pardon having been rejected.

OPEN REMODELED QUARTERS OF SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

Inspection of the Enlarged Rooms in Hanover Street Is Followed by an Interesting Social Hour.

SUPPER IS SERVED

The rededication of the home of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society at 287 Hanover street on Thursday evening opened to inspection the remodeled and enlarged quarters which have long been felt necessary for the growing work among the seamen of all nationalities who visit this port. After the inspection and social hour, followed by a bountiful supper, the guests adjourned to the chapel to listen to singing by the society's choir and addresses by Vice-President Samuel Usher, the Rev. S. G. Babcock, archdeacon of Massachusetts; the Rev. A. Z. Conrad, D. D., pastor of Park Street church, and the Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D. D., who has been the president of the society for the past 29 years. The prayer of dedication was delivered by the Rev. Cyrus P. Osborne, a statement of the work of the society by the chaplain, the Rev. G. B. Cutter, and a financial statement by Treasurer C. F. Stratton.

The rooms of the society are open every day and evening and entertainments including concerts, socials, sailors' suppers, dramatic performances, etc., are conducted. During the summer the society's launch continually visits the various vessels lying in the harbor and along shore supplying good reading for those unable to visit the rooms.

The society does much in the way of helping the sailors save their money, thousands of dollars being received each year and placed in savings banks, and food, clothing and shelter are provided for shipwrecked or destitute men. In all this work the Women's Seamen's Friend Society renders invaluable service.

The changes in the building include taking over the third floor, formerly rented, old stairways replaced by new and larger, a chapel seating 350 installed on the third floor, a new steam heating plant installed and various offices and writing tables. In the social hall on the second floor a large and beautiful fireplace has been installed by the Women's Seamen's Friend Society in remembrance of Mrs. F. O. White and Mrs. Walter Ela, former presidents of their society.

QUINCY STUDIES THE PLAYGROUND

QUINCY, Mass.—The Quincy playground committee of 100 met in the council chamber, City Hall, Thursday evening. Christine Lantz of Salem gave a history of the playground movement in that city.

There were addresses by Supt. of Schools Albert L. Barbour, Charles H. Johnson, Judge Albert E. Avery of the East Norfolk district, H. Gerrish Smith, superintendent of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, George E. Pfaffman and others.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Delavare Kingway; vice-chairmen, James L. Rand, Mrs. W. G. Shaw and Mrs. W. Ward White; treasurer, Clarence Burgin; secretary, Ernest G. Gay; executive committee, Mrs. George L. Badger, Albert L. Barbour, Henry M. Faxon, George E. Pfaffman, Thomas H. Pollard, William G. Shaw, H. Gerrish Smith, Robert G. Tensdale and Miss Margaret Thomas.

PAINTERS SECURE A WAGE INCREASE

Local painters have today won what they consider a decisive victory in enforcing a wage scale of $20 per week for house painters and $22.50 per week for decorators, 44 hours to constitute a week's work, with a half holiday on Saturday.

On Feb. 13 the master painters were notified that on and after April 1 they would have to pay this scale of wages. No answer was received by local union 11, so this morning 102 men stopped work. However, this is but a small minority of the union's 1143 members, most shops finally granting the wages asked. Practically all the large firms have given in but two, and they are expected by President E. Frank Moorhouse of local union 11 to come to terms before many hours.

PUBLICITY PRIZE CONTEST END DUE

The contest for two prizes of $75 and $25, respectively, for an artistic decoration for a series of advertisements to be used in connection with the work of the association in a campaign by the Pilgrim Publicity Association for the advancement of New England-made goods, closes at 5 p. m. today.

The judges will announce the successful contestant as soon as a decision can be reached. The time of this decision and the award of the prizes cannot be told today, it is said by an official of the association.

VETERANS HAVE CELEBRATION.
The Fusilier Veteran Corps celebrated its anniversary Thursday evening with a ball in Paul Revere hall, more than 200 couples attending. Governor Draper was represented by Maj. Talbot Aldrich and Capt. Edward L. Logan, and the state militia and the Spanish War Veterans were out in force.

SAILORS' NEW "SNUG HARBOR."

MERCANTILE BODY SPEAKERS DEFEND BOSTON AT DINNER

A feature of the dinner of the Mercantile Market Association held Thursday evening in Faneuil hall was the optimistic tone of the speeches, by Gov. Elen S. Draper, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, Dist. Atty. Joseph C. Pelletier, the Hon. Walter S. Glidden of the Governor's council, State Treas. Elmer A. Stevens, the Rev. Harley D. Maxwell, pastor of the First Universalist church, Somerville; Pres. Arthur T. Cummings of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange and Pres. Thomas F. Lomasney of the Mercantile Market Association.

All of the speeches aimed to show that there is good reason for the high price of food in Massachusetts; that many recent accusations against Boston as a city and Massachusetts as a state were largely founded on unreliable information; that Boston not only occupies an important place in American life as ever, but that in the future Boston will lead the whole country; that more publicity be given municipal and state affairs, that just criticism will always be welcome and that unjust criticism by misinformed individuals and newspapers is a constant menace to public knowledge and should be stopped.

MR. TAFT "WIRES" ALL GOVERNORS

Today, April 1, is the sixty-fifth anniversary of the inauguration of commercial telegraphy into the United States. In commemoration of the event President Taft today sent over the Teletype lines, by courtesy of that company, a message to the governors of the various states urging uniformity of laws on subjects of general national concern in respect to which the federal constitution does not confer power on the central government.

The teletype, it is announced, has reached such a development that one wire can accommodate the volume of business for which 65 wires were needed under the older systems. This, it is said, means cheaper tolls, and uniform rates to all parts of the country.

FIRE DRILL SIGNAL CLEARS SCHOOL

WAKEFIELD, Mass.—Miss Annie Taylor, a primary grade teacher in the Hamilton school of this town, discovered smoke pouring from a register this morning and immediately sounded a fire drill signal for the children to leave the building. The entire structure was cleared of pupils in less than one minute without the least confusion. The damage was slight, being confined to a pile of rubbish in the basement.

SUSTAINS AN APPOINTMENT.

WASHINGTON—Secretary MacVeagh has informed President Taft that in his opinion the reasons advanced against the appointment of William F. Stone as customs collector at Baltimore have been answered satisfactory. He recommends the appointment.

TORPEDO BOAT TO BE TESTED.

The government trial of the new submarine torpedo boat recently launched at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company's yards, Quincy, will take place in Boston harbor soon. Experts of the navy department are on their way to see the tests.

ATHENAEUM GETS BIG SUM.

The St. Johnsbury Athenaeum of St. Johnsbury, Vt., receives $25,000 from the estate of Mrs. Agnes Fairbanks Willard of Boston, whose will was filed in Suffolk county late Thursday. The rest of her estate goes to her husband and daughter.

Brief News About the State

MISSIONS BOARD AT STATE HOUSE

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (Congregational), through ex-Senator Arthur H. Wellman, appeared at the State House today to get authority to hold additional real and personal estate. Mr. Wellman explained that the board now is authorized to hold real estate to the amount of $1,000,000, and personal estate to the amount of $4,000,000.

A recent bequest of $1,000,000 puts the amount of personality close to the limit, and other bequests are expected. The commission wishes authority to hold $10,000,000 in personality and $20,000,000 in real estate. No one appeared in opposition, and the committee on mercantile affairs took the question under advisement.

DINNER TONIGHT BY LIEDERKRANZ

DEDHAM, Mass.—The West Roxbury Liederkranz will observe its fiftieth anniversary with a banquet tonight at its hall on Rockland street. President Charles E. Ziegler of East Dedham will preside and among the guests of the occasion will be President Dick of the New England Sangerbund, P. Oscar Schimpf, president of the Fidelity Musical and Educational Association; William H. Gleason, president of the Germantown Citizens Association, and the presidents or representatives of sister German and German-American singing clubs and societies. A musical program will also be a feature.

300,000 MINERS ARE OFF DUTY

NEW YORK—Despatches from Indianapolis today say that 300,000 miners in the bituminous coal fields of the United States are off duty in the demand for higher wages.

This city is also in the first stages of a strike today—that of the masters, mates and pilots of the railroad tugboats in New York harbor. The tieup went into effect at midnight.

The railroads affected are the Lehigh Valley, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Lackawanna and the Central of New Jersey.

TUFTS SORORITY DANCES TONIGHT

Lambda chapter of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority at Tufts College will hold its annual ball this evening in the new women's gymnasium on College Hill.

The plan of merging the Tufts papers, the Tuftonian, the monthly literary publication, and the Weekly, the college newspaper, has again been revived and is receiving much discussion.

RANDOLPH.

The First Baptist church has elected: Moderator, Dr. C. C. Farnham; clerk and treasurer, Fred M. French; trustees, Dr. C. C. Farnham, George H. Eddy and Lester R. Packard; music committee, Mrs. J. N. Shipman, Mrs. C. C. Farnham and Miss Esther E. Holbrook; auditors, William L. Pulson and C. W. Lentell; standing committee, the Rev. E. E. Williams, Fred M. French, F. Wayland Alden, Henry S. May, E. M. Stetson, Kenneth J. Matherson, Mrs. F. M. French, Mrs. E. J. Stickney and Mrs. J. N. Shipman. The church voted to adopt the freepew system.

The spring term of the public schools will open Monday.

Class 10 of the Stetson high school presented the farce, "Who Is Who? or All in a Fog," in Stetson hall Thursday evening.

WALTHAM.

The city's water supply system is receiving its annual spring flushing.

The assistant assessors commenced the work of taking the polls this morning. The resignation of the Rev. C. A. Place, pastor of the Unitarian church, took effect today.

The Womens Club met in the parlors of the Universalist church this afternoon. A lecture in the Bible study course was given.

AVON.

The town is without a fire alarm system, owing to the closing of the Littlefield & Loring shoe factory, and the selectmen will be obliged to fall back on the bell in the Baptist church for service.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church is arranging for an entertainment at an early date in the vestry of the church.

NEWTON.

Byron's "Manfred," with musical accompaniment from the works of Schumann, was given before the West Newton Womens Educational Club this afternoon.

Several of the city's thoroughfares are receiving preliminary treatment by the highway department before a coat of oil is applied.

HOLBROOK.

The Rev. E. H. Hughes of the Methodist church is this week attending the session of the southern New England conference at Attleboro.

Holbrook commandery, W. O. G. S., is to hold a fair in the town hall April 6, 7 and 8.

COLEMAN TRIAL TO BE DELAYED

United States Dist. Atty. Asa P. French arrived in Boston today from Washington, and in an interview stated that the trial of George W. Coleman would have to be delayed until the latter part of this month or the first of May. Mr. French said further: "The government is still investigating the Cambridge bank case and if the evidence justifies another arrest such a move will be made. The government, however, is not going to be influenced into making any more arrests by criticism of newspapers."

"I understand that W. A. Morse, counsel for Coleman and Lockhart, is not ready to take the case to trial just yet. Aside from that Judge Lowell has only four days left to set in the criminal session of the United States circuit court. After that he will be busy on cases that will come up before the United States court of appeal, which will be in session the greater part of this month. Consequently you see it will be impossible for him to try the Coleman case until the latter part of this month and probably not until May."

SEEK TO REPEAL DESERTION LAW

W. H. Frazier, secretary of the Seamen's Union of Boston, is making a strenuous effort for successful legislation this year to repeal the law which makes it an offense to advise or assist a seaman to desert. A bill has been drawn up and sent to the judiciary committee. Similar legislation sought last year was defeated by two votes.

The navy department is interested in the legislation. A letter from the department asking for all information regarding the bill's courses has been received at the Boston navy yard.

MALDEN SENIORS SOLVE QUESTION

The pupils of the senior class of the Malden high school have solved a difficulty in relation to the seating capacity of the platform for graduation by having two large wings erected on the sides of the stage. They will thus be able to seat the 150 members of the class.

The pupils taking part in the exercises will occupy the central part of the platform. Two seniors, a boy and a girl, will speak at the unveiling of the soldiers and sailors memorial statue June 17. The selection is to be made by competition.

PROBATION OFFICIAL IS NAMED.

QUINCY, Mass.—Judge Avery of the district court today appointed Lester L. Clee deputy probation officer for the juvenile court at the solicitation of the school committee, superintendent of schools and the directors of the Y. M. C. A.

WHITMAN.

The Unity Club of the Unitarian church held its monthly meeting Thursday evening in the vestry of the church. The meeting was also a farewell to the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Wilkie and his wife.

REPORT DUE TODAY ON SCHOOLS FROM THE FINANCE BOARD

Parkman Fund Instalment Just Received by City of Boston Brings Amount to Date Above Two Millions.

COURTESY ORDERED

The first report of the Boston finance commission on the investigation of the increased expenditures in the Boston school department will be made late this afternoon, and will contain about 2000 words.

The investigation was started Tuesday afternoon and but one hearing has been held, at which Chairman David A. Ellis of the school board was the only witness. The report was to have been made Thursday afternoon, but it was held up awaiting some figures from the city auditor.

The George F. Parkman park improvement fund has been increased to the extent of $345,000 by the receipt at the city treasurer's office of an instalment of this amount, making the total sum which the city has received on this fund to date $2,180,000.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald has sent out a circular letter to the heads of all departments, which will act as an order from the mayor's office, in which he gives instructions on the matter of courtesy. The letter is as follows:

"I desire to impress upon you the importance of maintaining a high standard of courtesy among your employees in their dealings with the public. Every office in the city departments should be open during the required hours and citizens should be made to feel that they are there of right and not by favor."

"All reasonable inquiries should be answered and all proper information supplied without delay or reluctance on the part of the clerks in charge. Any instance of intentional discourtesy to callers should meet with severe rebuke, and habitual offensiveness of manner on the part of any employee should be corrected by stringent measures."

"This is particularly true if the callers are persons in humble walks of life, who cannot be expected to be familiar with office rules and technical requirements, or foreign born citizens who have not yet acquired a perfect knowledge of English."

CAKE AND CANDY SALE.

The Fathers and Mothers Club announces a cake and candy sale to be held at the clubhouse of the Twentieth Century Club, 3 Joy street, at 2:30 p. m., April 5. The funds realized will be used for giving summer outings to children. Songs, stories, poems, games and riddles, furnished by members, will supply entertainment.

MOVE TO DIVIDE COUNTY EXPENSES

A resolve for the appointment of a commission to consider the apportionment of the expenses of Suffolk county, to report not later than Jan. 20 of next year, was favorably voted upon by the committee on counties of the Legislature at the State House today.

Under the present law all the expenses of Suffolk county are borne by the city of Boston, and there were several petitions before the committee to provide that a proportionate share of the expense be borne by the towns of Revere and Wrentham and the cities of Boston and Chelsea, comprising the municipalities in this county.

As drafted by the committee, the resolve provides that the supreme judicial court, upon petition of any one of the interested cities or towns of the district, shall appoint a special commission of three disinterested persons, not residents of Suffolk county, to consider the apportionment of the expense of the county and to give hearings to all interested parties.

Representative Hickey of Boston, who will report the bill for the committee, will first submit it to Attorney-General Malone for an opinion as to its provisions.

OYSTER BAN IN NEW RULING.

WASHINGTON—Oysters can no longer be fed "floated in brackish water" before they are offered for sale. The department of agriculture has ordered that the practise must stop at once. The order affects all the oyster trade in the United States and is of immense importance to dealers.

TARIFF TREATY LUNCHEON.

PARIS—M. Dupuy, minister of commerce, gave a luncheon Thursday to celebrate the Franco-American tariff agreement. Robert Bacon, the American ambassador, was the guest of honor.

WILLIAM C. RUSSELL AND CALIFORNIAN CLAIMANT MEET the claimant were told Thursday evening that it was all over; there would be no more interviews. Mr. Cartwright was uncommunicative, and his client was in seclusion.

During the afternoon hours some eight or ten Melrose men gathered in the lobby of the hotel, all anxious to get a look at the latest claimant. Many of them refused to give their names or tell what they had in mind, whether an identification of the Fresno man or just curiosity. One man said he believed he had seen the Fresno man in the courtroom at East Cambridge in January and he wished to see the claimant to be sure. He got tired of waiting about 6 p. m. and left the hotel before the claimant appeared with his attorneys.

Attorney Leslie A. Simpson, counsel for the Dakota claimant, is firm in his belief that his client is the real Daniel Blake Russell and that the new claimant from California is an impostor.

Speaking about the situation Thursday, Mr. Simpson said: "We have the real Daniel Blake Russell and we are preparing to argue his case before Judge Lawton next week just as if no other claimant existed. We believe that he has established his identity by the preponderance and weight of evidence and we are not troubling our heads about the Fresno man."

TAKES MINTON CASE TO DESCRIBE POWER CIVIL SERVICE HOLDS

and police department only, but not in any other case.

"Many persons would like to place the officials of counties under this law, they being exceptions. At nearly every session of the Legislature a bill is presented for this purpose as to Suffolk county, but has always been thrown out by the Legislature. Those familiar with the law say that there is no reason why there should be any exception in this case, as the same reasons apply to them as to the state or the cities.

"The civil service commission has peculiar power in the city of Boston. No one on the payrolls of the city can get paid for their service unless the commission has approved the payment. This gives it the power to enforce civil service in the city. If any one is put upon the payrolls without proper authority all that the commission need do to get his removal or compel him to come within the law is to refuse to sign the payroll as to the person in question.

"This same power over all the cities in the commonwealth would be exercised were it not for the fact of expense. In order to do this in a satisfactory manner it would require an agent in every city."

ATTORNEY BRANDEIS PROTESTS REMARKS AT BALLINGER TRIAL

Mr. Vertrees read a portion of the testimony given by Special Agent Horace Tiffard Jones, to the effect that he had taken up with Mr. Todd the question of criminal prosecution against certain claimants for fraud, and that Mr. Todd had said that it was "useless" to do this because "Judge Hanford was constitutionally opposed to land fraud cases," and that "he (Todd) did not want to be humiliated" by taking up the case.

"I did have a conference with Jones," Mr. Todd testified, "but that testimony of Jones is absolutely false. I never said anything like that."

A heated clash occurred between Attorney Brandeis, counsel for Mr. Glavis, and Chairman Nelson of the committee, when the former was examining Mr. Todd as to a letter written by Mr. Glavis to the land office in relation to criminal prosecutions of claimants. In Mr. Glavis' testimony it was stated that this letter, though written, was not sent. Attorney Brandeis asked whether the delay in instituting these prosecutions by Mr. Glavis was not due to the land office, and when the witness said he did not know, Mr. Brandeis read the Glavis letter asking for certain original papers so that he could begin these prosecutions.

"Glavis did not send that letter," asked Chairman Nelson.

"This witness has testified that he (Glavis) has so stated on the witness stand," explained Mr. Brandeis. "There is no direct evidence."

Mr. Vertrees interrupted at this juncture to read Mr. Glavis' testimony, where he stated specifically that the letter was not sent.

"There," said Chairman Nelson, "why didn't you tell us that in the first place? Why did you conceal that from us?" "I beg your pardon," yelled Mr. Brandeis, striding toward the chairman with his clenched hand upraised. "I didn't conceal anything from the committee. I read."

TAORMINA CALLS THE ROOSEVELTS

Pantheon and other great French monuments have been planned, and there will be also, it is expected, automobile trips to Versailles and Fontainebleau and other interesting points. M. Jusserand, the French ambassador at Washington, will arrive here April 14.

CHRISTIANIA—Intense interest is displayed by all classes here in Theodore Roosevelt's coming visit, and great preparations are being made for his reception. The details, however, have not yet been worked out. There will be a state banquet, at which the King, the government officials and others will be present. This will be held at Festival hall.

King Haakon has invited Colonel Roosevelt to be his guest at the palace during his stay here. The University of Christiania will confer upon him the degree of doctor of philosophy. Colonel Roosevelt having signified his acceptance of the honor through the American minister.

Mr. Roosevelt's Nobel lecture will probably be delivered in the National theater, as the institute building is not large enough to meet the enormous demand for tickets.

Mr. Roosevelt will spend a day in Copenhagen on his way to Christiania, where he will arrive May 3. He will deliver the Nobel lecture on May 5, and will leave either on May 6 or 7 for Stockholm. From there he will go to Berlin.

COPENHAGEN—Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, arrived here Thursday night. He admitted that he expected to meet Colonel Roosevelt either in Copenhagen or in London, but was silent as to whether he had been summoned. He is a guest at the British legation, where he is visiting his sister, Lady Johnstone, wife of Sir Alan Johnstone, British minister to Denmark.

HIGH COST OF LIVING PROBE IN BAY STATE HAS SECOND HEARING

The introduction of new machinery, he said, had not resulted in reducing the price of shoes as much as might be expected, so far as his factory was concerned.

New England industries, he said, will suffer unless the young men are taught the methods of business. He charged the unions with preventing apprentices from learning the trade.

Edward Hamlin of the Metropolitan Coal Company said that there has been no increase in coal prices since the big coal strike; coal in Boston is as low today as it has been at any time since then. One great trouble is that the poor people buy their coal in so small amounts, he said, that it costs them 30, 40 or 50 per cent more than it does others who buy by the ton rate. He denied any agreement among coal dealers to advance the price of coal. He thought it a good thing if the tariff were taken off bituminous coal.

MARCH SMASHES CUSTOMS RECORD

The month of March just closed was a record breaking one at the Boston Custom House. If the amount of merchandise imported and the duties paid thereon are any criterion, business surely is increasing with leaps and bounds at the port of Boston. The great increase in business does not appear to be traceable to the importation of any particular lines of merchandise, the increase seeming to be general.

EIGHT LOSE LIVES IN FIRE.

DIYPRONG, Ia.—Mrs. Mattie Ivy and seven men lost their lives while fighting a forest fire that destroyed several lumber camps and burned over a large territory, according to information reaching here today from camps which escaped the blaze. The fire started Wednesday morning and an attempt was made to save the home Mrs. Ivy by the seven lumbermen.

"I strenuously object to that insinuation," Mr. move that the chairman's remark be withdrawn," shouted Representative Graham, half rising from his seat.

"And I second that motion," added Mr. James. A babel of voices ensued, each of the committee members attempting to secure recognition.

Rep. McCall put in a plea for peace; Senator Sutherland expressed disfavor of the motion and Rep. Madison said he did not care to vote for it.

"Well," remarked Mr. Jones, "in this cross-examination I don't think counsel ought to be jerked up by the chairman. I think the outburst of counsel was perfectly justified."

"I desire to be heard," said Mr. Brandeis. "The chairman himself, if he had paid close attention, would have seen that that of which he charges me was beyond the possibility of foundation of fact."

A reading of the stenographer's notes, called for by several members of the committee, seemed to hear out Mr. Brandeis' point. A motion to lay Mr. Graham's motion on the table was carried.

Chairman of Immigration Commission Explains How Canada Adds to Population

THE HON. W. P. DILLINGHAM.
Senator from Vermont who submits report on American immigration to Canada.

WASHINGTON—Canada hustles for high-grade immigrants, especially farmers. Agents are paid to induce them to emigrate from the United States and last year the government advertised for them in nearly 7000 newspapers and farm journals in the United States. This and many other facts illustrating the enterprise of the Dominion in swelling its population were set forth in a report submitted to the Senate by the immigration commission today.

A dozen agents are maintained in the large cities of this country and about 200 sub-agents are scattered throughout the state. For inducing people to settle in Canada they receive $3 for a man, $2 for a woman and $1 for a child. In 10 years nearly $2,000,000 has been spent in this country to lure people across the border. The number that crossed the line during the years 1901 to 1908, inclusive, was 393,908. The number last year was 59,926. However, this migration was offset to a large extent by the fact that in 1909 Canadians to the number of 53,584 settled in the United States.

Canada discourages immigration from southern Europe. It keeps out the Chinese by imposing a head tax of $500. An agreement with Japan limits the number of Japanese coming in to 400 a year. The Hindus are barred by a law providing that immigrants coming otherwise than by a continuous journey from the country of which they are natives may be excluded. A continuous trip from India is impossible. So the great bulk of the immigrants are from the United States and northern Europe.

Contract labor is not forbidden. On the contrary, intending immigrants are encouraged to arrange in advance for employment, if possible.

In 1908, 70 per cent of the European immigration to Canada came from northern and western Europe and in 1907 only 19 per cent of the European immigration to the United States came from such countries.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL FOR LEATHER TRADE TO BE ESTABLISHED

A leather school, the first of a group of special vocation schools to be established in Boston, will be opened at 91 Bedford street on April 5. Sessions will be on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock, and will continue for 10 weeks.

Instruction will be given in production and distribution of leather, tanning processes, leather manufacturing, comparative values of leather, the manufacture and classification of shoes, commercial arithmetic, commercial geography and commercial correspondence.

The school will be open to a group of pupils limited in number to 40, all of whom must be now employed in the leather business, and the firms for which they work will permit them to attend the school without loss of pay.

The school is under the supervision of the Boston school board and an advisory committee made up of the following gentlemen of the leather business: Thomas F. Anderson, Elisha W. Cobb, Charles C. Hoyt, J. F. McEwan, Fred B. Rice, L. M. Armstrong, Louis A. Coolidge, Charles H. Jones, Charles A. Proctor, Harry A. Thayer.

WILL BEQUEATHS $10,000 TO TECH

The will of Prof. J. Rayner Edmonds of Cambridge gives $10,000 to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His property at 61 Garden street, Cambridge, is left to Radcliffe College as a memorial to his wife, Mrs. Helen L. Edmonds, and the Appalachian Mountain Club, Harvard University and the East End Christian Union of Cambridge each receive $1000. The professor's telescope and $5000 are given to Brown University as a memorial to the early efforts of Alexis Caswell to establish an astronomical observatory at Brown.

POLICE TOUR BOSTON WITH LISTING CARDS

The annual police listing started in Boston at 7 a. m. today, approximately 1100 police officers in uniform taking the cards and beginning the house to house canvass. The listing board hopes to complete the street work Wednesday noon. All the regular day officers and what are known as long day men, those who go on duty at 12:45 a. m. and work until 7:45 a. m., are engaged in the work. The listing will go on from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., but officers are cautioned not to disturb families that have retired. They must make a memorandum of them and let another officer go there in the morning.

The police carry with them three kinds of cards in their listing, a green card, a white card and a buff-colored card.

A green card is provided for each house in the city. On this is written the ward, the precinct, the street and street number. On this card is also marked the number of suites in the house, the names of all male residents, with the necessary listing information, is written in.

The white cards are for getting individual names. If but one person lives in a house, it will be so stated on the white card; if more than one, a separate white card will be used for each resident.

The buff cards are for women voters. The police merely write yes or no on them. Yes, if the woman still lives in the address mentioned under the same name, and no if she does not.

POSTAL CLERKS ELECT SATURDAY

Local Branch of National Association Will Know the Result of the Balloting on Tuesday.

Unusual interest is being manifested in Boston postal circles in the outcome of the election of officers of branch 5 of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks, to be held tomorrow in the postal station and branches in the outlying districts and in the central postoffice on Monday. The result of the election will be known Tuesday.

The candidates for president are William F. Curley of the central office and John A. McMahon of the paper room, central office. The candidates for vice-president are Fred J. O'Flaherty of the North postal station and brother of the North on Harvard's eleven last year, and John A. Leadbetter of the registry division. The other candidates are: Recording secretary, Florence J. Hurley, W. J. Magee; financial secretary, Joseph J. Bevin; and Samuel J. Linclan; treasurer, William J. Bradbury and Michael F. Curran; for delegate, Albert M. Abbott, Michael J. Barry, Nelson H. Bayers, Thomas F. Brooks, Charles W. Burns, John F. Chippendale, Francis Daily, Charles W. Finn, P. J. Heanue, M. P. Hogan, James P. Smith; for directors, J. H. Coffey, George W. Cooley, Henry Cusick, John J. O'Brien, Peter B. O'Neill and Harold A. Westall.

WARM CAMPAIGN DUE IN NEW YORK

Lively Contest Is in Prospect for Aspirant to Succeed Congressman Perkins in Monroe County.

NEW YORK—Indications that George W. Aldridge, the Republican leader of Monroe county, is to be given a hot contest if he sticks to his present intention and nominates himself as the Republican candidate to succeed the late Congressman Perkins are apparent.

William J. Connors, chairman of the Democratic state committee, announced that the entire resources of the state committee will be placed at the disposal of the Democratic candidate, no matter who he may be. He telegraphed his offer of assistance to state committee men Thomas W. Finucane and Jacob Gerling and to County Chairman Howard T. Mosher, and recommended that the candidate named be one who can appeal to the independent voters for support as well as to party men.

In part Chairman Connors says: "The election of a Democrat congressman in your strong Republican district would be of everlasting benefit to the people of the country. The country is now in revolt against Cannonism. Nominate a candidate, therefore, having strength of character, ability and standing."

HELPS PROBES IN GRAFT CASES

PITTSBURG, Pa.—William Brand, former president of the common council, who was brought from the penitentiary to testify before the grand jury, makes full confession to help the graft probes to trail the "men higher up."

Brand's confession, and that of Charles Stewart, leave but one more important witness to be heard, it is said. This witness, Councilman Hugh Ferguson, who was at the court house Thursday to tell his story but the grand jury put him off till today.

COLUMBUS, O.—Demand has been made on Atty.-Gen. Denman to bring out proceedings against the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and the Hocking Valley railroads.

MOVE OF MARYLAND TO BAR NEGRO FROM VOTE IS CONDEMNED

WASHINGTON—Maryland is getting ready, through its Legislature, to disfranchise all negro voters. The matter is of such tremendous political significance, from the national viewpoint, that the movement may fail, for the strongest men among the Democrats in Congress are openly saying that the movement is a great mistake, and that they will do what they can to prevent its being made.

From Annapolis today comes news that the question of disfranchising the negro voters of Maryland was again the chief topic at today's legislative session. Following a complete discussion of the entire legislative program by the Democratic leaders, it was decided to press the Diggers bill to passage at once. The bill prohibiting negroes voting at state or town elections is to take effect at once. Then a constitutional amendment, providing that negroes owning $500 worth of real property, and having paid taxes on it for two years, may vote, is to be drafted. This will be submitted to the voters at the election of 1911. Under the provision of the Diggers bill only white voters will be qualified to vote on the constitutional amendment. The constitutional amendment is the work of Senator Arthur P. Gorman and City Solicitor Edgar Allan Poe of Baltimore.

MANY ARE PROPOSED TO RECEIVE MEDALS

with special mention of the fire department station and police department station that have done most signal service in protecting life and property.

The new opera house is offered by John Nolen, the "city planner," and Daniel G. Wing, as an enterprise which should be "decorated" with a medal. One anonymous letter writer says, "the initiative of Mr. Jordan in founding the opera house, the enthusiasm of Joseph Lee for playgrounds and the energetic campaign of Mr. McSweeney are all worthy of honor." This writer, like a number of others, recommends also the reorganization of the business bodies of the city in the Chamber of Commerce, the founding of the Boston City Club and of the Boston-1915 movement, and the formation of the United Improvement Association as achievements to be recognized. It was announced in the beginning that no work directly connected with Boston-1915 would be considered.

Every field of interest nearly is covered in the advice given the judges. The Rev. H. A. Bridgman of the Congregationalist offers the Rev. Rufus B. Tobey as a man to be given a medal for "his fine work in connection with the Boston floating hospital," and the Rev. E. J. Helms of the Morgan Memorial as "a man who has done splendid things for the city." John D. Adams of Lincoln House submits the names of George W. Coleman, originator and director of the Ford hall lectures, and John Craig, whom he describes as "manager and player, teacher and true philanthropist."

The various citizens' and improvement associations have been asked to award Boston-1915 medals for achievements in their districts. They, too, are finding the task of selection a difficult one, "there are so many things to choose from," as one of their officers expresses it. It is expected that the medals will be awarded in the latter part of May or June 1, though no date has been set definitely for this year. Meanwhile the board of judges is glad to receive as many recommendations as citizens will send.

TRIES TO INVOLVE JUSTICE M'CALL

NEW YORK—When the insurance inquiry was resumed today, Superintendent Hotchkiss continued his attempt to involve E. E. McCall, now a justice of the supreme court, in the operations of William H. Buckley, the successful Albany lobbyist. Stewart Browne, a broker, first president of the International Banking & Trust Company and organizer and for three years vice-president of the National Surety Company, who wrote Mr. Hotchkiss defending Justice McCall, was questioned at length.

Asked about the charter of the International Corporation, Mr. Browne said his company wanted all the advantages given any corporation by law but none of the legal restrictions.

"I now show you the minute book of this famous corporation charter," began Mr. Hotchkiss.

"Where in the world did you get that book?" demanded Browne.

"I have it; that is sufficient. I do not intend to tell you. You see I have many more books of the corporation and I am going to keep them."

Mr. Browne made a heated argument against Hotchkiss producing the books saying the superintendent had no legal right to divulge their contents.

MR. NORTON ASKS REMOVAL CAUSE

Chelsea Ex-Official Says Denying Licenses to Persons Favored by the Board of Control Caused Trouble.

Herbert A. Norton, formerly of the Chelsea board of license commissioners, who with William Burns was removed from that board by the Chelsea board of control on Thursday, has given out a statement in which he demands that written reasons, if any, for his removal by the board of control be given to him.

Mr. Norton relates cases of applicants for licenses who were sanctioned by members of the board of control, but were regarded by the license commissioners as improper persons to receive them. Such differences were declared by Mr. Norton to be the cause of the trouble between the two boards. Mr. Norton also made public a communication sent to the board of control, after again refusing to resign his position on the licensing board, in which he declared that to resign would be to confess unworthiness, and that if he were removed it would put the board of control in the position of accepting as true certain statements affecting his reputation for honesty.

William E. McClintock, chairman of the board of control, said that there was nothing more to be given out regarding the matter.

AFTER EVIDENCE OF BANK LOOTING

"A searching investigation for evidence against any person guilty of breaking federal laws in connection with the case of the National City Bank of Cambridge is now being prosecuted," said United States District Attorney Asa P. French today. Mr. French reached his desk today after returning Thursday from Washington, where he had a conference with the comptroller of the treasury. "It is impossible to convict unless we have the evidence," said Mr. French.

A delay of several weeks in the trial of George W. Coleman, former bookkeeper, who is charged with making false entries, and Wilson W. Lockhart, charged with aiding and abetting Coleman, has been caused by an unusual rush of cases in the United States circuit court.

Observe second anniversary of the maids' clubhouse.

EXTERIOR OF BUILDING.

View of the cozy quarters of association that is unique among women's colleges of America.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—The maids' clubhouse, which has just celebrated its second anniversary, is one thing in which Vassar stands unique among the women's colleges of America.

From 1901 to 1907 the question of a maids' clubhouse was agitated and Dr. Taylor gave his consent on condition that nothing should be started until the required $10,000 was actually at hand. Tentative soliciting was done in which the girls were asked to pledge money. Lewis F. Pilcher, professor of art, designed the building, which was completed and opened in March, 1908.

The college girls pay all running expenses, except for light, heat, etc., which the college provides. The chief expense is the salary of the supervisor, who this year is Miss Elizabeth Paine, Woman's College of Baltimore, 1900. Her work is to make the clubhouse as attractive as possible to the maids, to be ready to help them in any way by advice and to guide the college girls in their work in connection with the clubhouse.

Classes are conducted by college girls in handicrafts, cooking, sewing, German and French for those who wish it. There are two classes in every-day English for Americans and two in beginning English for foreigners. Some college girls dance or play basketball with the maids once a week; others give lessons in sight-singing, and also mandolin and piano lessons which are much in demand. The dramatic pupils have been very successful in plays given for the benefit of the clubhouse.

No maid can use the clubhouse unless she is a member of the Goodfellowship Club. In order to organize this on a self-governing basis, a membership fee of 25 cents a semester is charged. A large proportion of the maids belong. Their enthusiasm is high and they have shown a great deal of skill in club management. They pay their club expenses by sales, teas, etc., and this year have pledged $100 to be used either toward running expenses or the endowment fund, one member having contributed $10.

A committee of college girls—one senior, two juniors, one sophomore and one freshman—is elected by the Students Association to manage the clubhouse. Miss Sarah Hinks of Andover, Mass., is chairman this year.

The alumnae have contributed largely toward running expenses and the endowment fund. The latter, however, is not yet materialized, and an opportunity to aid its completion and to help in the expense of running the clubhouse is afforded for those interested in it as a college undertaking or as a unique effort among women workers.

NATIONAL BANKS TAX ADVOCATED

State Examiner of Maine Gives Reasons Why Deposits in Those Institutions Should Pay Revenue.

LEWISTON, Me.—The Hon. W. B. Skilton, state bank examiner, has just returned from Washington, where he appeared before the committee having under consideration the bill to levy a tax on savings deposits in national banks.

"In 1909," he said, "the savings banks paid $471,681.14, which under ordinary circumstances should show a substantial income. But during the past two or three years the national banks have entered actively into competition for this class of deposits and the reports made on the last call of the comptroller of the currency show a total of more than $17,000,000."

"Such a tax, according to present figures, would mean $95,000 annually to the state, and that without discrimination against any one. Unless it can be had it would seem that the state will be obliged, sooner or later, to abolish its tax against its own banking institutions, and leave all such deposits open to local taxation at a much higher rate, or to abandon the source of revenue altogether, collecting so much more from other classes of property."

TURKISH AWARD NOT YET CLOSED

WASHINGTON—The published statement that the Turkish government had awarded to British firms contracts for the construction of war vessels to cost approximately $25,000,000 is now said to have been premature.

A telegram received at the state department Thursday from Mr. James, the charge d'affaires of the United States at Constantinople, says that the Turkish orders have not yet been closed.

HENRY W. GOODRICH PASSES ON.

WELLESLEY, Mass.—Henry W. Goodrich, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., but a resident of this town for the past six months, passed away at his place of residence on Forest street, Wellesley Hills, late Thursday. Mr. Goodrich was long a civil engineer of prominence and assisted in the laying out of the Boston & Maine system, the Grand Trunk and several other important railroads.

MAINE TO SECURE BIG POWER PLANT

Syndicate Is Behind Project at Bonny Eagle to Develop Site on Saco River to Generate Electricity.

STANDISH, Me.—Provided the project for the development of the water power at Bonny Eagle shall be carried to completion, an immense lake, covering 10 square miles, will occupy the fertile farms and broad woodlands along the Saco river bottoms, here and in Hollis and Limington. Nothing so gigantic, by comparison, has ever been undertaken in western Maine up to this time. It means the expenditure in excess of a million dollars.

A dam is planned which will tower 60 feet from the river bed and the high walls of the river banks will be banked still higher many rods up stream. The Hollis side has a natural bulwark ledge and hill and the Standish side rises precipitately but not high enough to form a retaining wall.

Those who have accepted bonds for deeds from E. A. Robson, representing the syndicate, have been unable to learn who the promoters are. They have been asked to have their deeds drawn up and properly phrased for delivery this spring. Provision is made for them to continue to occupy their property and to remove wood and timber and buildings, due notice to be given, and they are told it may be one, two or three years before the river will lose its identity in this section to become a lake.

An immense power plant is to be erected to produce electricity. That much is no secret. Who is to make it, who is to use it or where, are unanswered questions.

WORCESTER ROAD TO RAISE WAGES

WORCESTER, Mass.—The Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Company employees will receive a general advance amounting to $20,000 a year, it is stated here, if the proposal of the general managers of the Worcester and Springfield divisions of the New Haven street railway system is accepted.

The Worcester employees will act on the proposition next Tuesday night.

MUSICAL EVENTS

MME. JOANNA GADSKI.
Metropolitan soprano who sings as Eva in Wagner's "Meistersinger," Boston opera house, Saturday evening.

TWO MILITARY OPERAS.

TWO short military operas, Massenet's "La Navarraise" and Donizetti's "Daughter of the Regiment," were performed by Oscar Hammerstein's Manhattan Opera Company at the Boston theater Thursday evening. "La Navarraise" was given under the musical direction of Henrique de la Fuente with the following cast:

Anita, the Navarraise..... M. de la Fuente
Araquil, sergeant of the regiment of Biscay..... M. Lucas Garrido, general of the troops.....

Remigio, father of Araquil..... M. Huberdeau
Ramon, captain of the regiment of Biscay..... M. Crabbie
Bustamante, sergeant of the regiment of Biscay..... M. Nicolay

The "Daughter of the Regiment" was given under Oscar Anselmi's musical direction with the following cast: Maria, a vivandiere..... Mme. Tetravzini
Marquis de Birkenfeld..... Mme. Duchene
Tonio, a peasant..... John McCormack
Sergeant Sulpice..... M. Charles Gilbert
Major Domo..... M. Nicolay

Mme. Gerville-Reache's Anita was the same fiery impersonation that it was a year ago. The course of the drama was as swift as ever under the lead of the French contralto, but it was smoother than it used to be and it was qualified by more pathos than formerly. There are few artists, very few contraltos, indeed, with the temperament for so rapid portrayal as the little drama, or episode, as it is called in the libretto, demands; and Mme. Gerville-Reache has come into full mastery of it only through long and earnest practice. Her delineation of the woman of Navarre is a fine piece of work, into which singing and acting enter in well considered proportions.

Mme. Tetravzini's American audiences usually prefer to hear her in the tragic operas "Traviata" and "Lucia," probably not so much because they like tragedy better than comedy but because these operas give them a larger measure of the gifted soprano's vocal art than such works as the "Barber of Seville," "Sonnambula" and "Daughter of the Regiment." But Mr. Hammerstein, who may rightly claim to be an educator of the public in things musical if any American citizen can, has succeeded in winning his New York audiences to Mme. Tetravzini's delightful interpretation of the comedy role of Maria in Donizetti's little military opera. He easily won the Boston audience of Thursday evening to Mme. Tetravzini's Maria. There was good singing by the soprano, though, of course, it was not in the "Lucia" and "Traviata" manner. And then there was exquisite comedy acting, quite a match for the tragic acting of Mme. Gerville-Reache in "La Navarraise" and an excellent contrast to it.

Mme. Tetravzini never missed a point in acting the part of the regiment's daughter, and Mr. Gilbert, her chief associate, devoted himself faithfully to strengthening the point of all her stage business. The chorus of soldiers in Donizetti's opera sang in Italian as fluently as the soldiers in Massenet's opera sang in French. Surely the Manhattan director could not manage to bring great artists together and make them work so zealously as those taking part in the Boston theater performances work unless he were a great artist himself. One of the few large audiences of Mr. Hammerstein's present Boston season applauded Mme. Gerville-Reache and Mme. Tetravzini Thursday evening.

The performance at the Boston theater tonight begins at 8 o'clock; the opera is Debussy's "Pelleas and Melisande," with the following singers: Miss Mary Garden, Mme. Gerville-Reache, Mlle. Trentini, M. Devries, M. Dufrenoy, M. Huberdeau, M. Crabbie; conductor, M. de la Fuente.

METROPOLITAN PERFORMANCES.

The next performance by the Metropolitan Opera Company at the Boston opera house is "Tosca" at the Saturday matinee, with Mmes. Farrar, Wickham; MM. Martin, Scotti; conductor, Egipto Tangu. From this performance the company turns its attention to work which has given it a reputation high above anything that has come to it through presentations of Italian opera—the Wagnerian music drama. Saturday evening Mr. Gatti-Casazza's German singers will give Wagner's comic opera, "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," the production of which lately at the opera house in New York was called the best thing the company has done in this year of its extraordinary accomplishments. This performance will bring to Boston Mme. Gadske, the Elsa of the first Metropolitan season; Mr. Slezak, the Czech tenor whose interpretation of Walter tenor to be the standard one of today; and Mr. Toscanini, the conductor of "Tristan" in January and of "Aida" the opening night of the present engagement.

Miss Alice Nielsen, who will finish her work with the Boston opera company at New Haven, Conn., Saturday evening, April 2, will go to Chicago with the Metropolitan company to sing Tuesday evening, April 5, with Bonci in "Rigoletto," and Wednesday afternoon, April 6, with Caruso in "La Boheme."

"TALES OF HOFFMANN."

The "Tales of Hoffmann," performed at the Thursday matinee at the Boston theater, is described as a "fantastic" opera. Its sparkling beauties are well known and its story is of such literary merit that its performance is generally a delight to persons who love their music as we love sunshine, who know that operettas may be beautiful though light, who feel that a constant diet of music without trifles light as air would be somewhat soggy.

This is well recognized abroad. There is an appreciation of Wagner or Verdi or the latter-day prophets of the new and arid is not thought incompatible with a devotion to the gifted and beautiful music of Audran, Auber, Planquette, Offenbach. Dilettante prejudices are so well established among us, however, that many technically trained composers feel it beneath them to write anything but

UNION MEMBERS REHEARSE PLAYS

Hyde Park Church Organization Is Making Preparations to Present Two Comedies Early in May.

HYDE PARK, Mass.—The Social Union of Christ church is rehearsing two plays to be given in French's hall early in May.

The first, a short sketch entitled "No Men Wanted," will be enacted by Miss Jeanette Dailey of Dedham, Miss Marian Boyd and Miss Mildred Byrnes.

The other, a three-act comedy, "The Elopement of Ellen," will be the only play given here entirely by a male cast, with the exception of the annual Dartmouth dramatics.

Under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Blair the following cast is rehearsing: Richard Ford, a devoted young husband; Francis J. Nunn, Molly, his wife, Herbert Darling; Robert Shepard, Molly's brother; Donald M. Emerson; Max Ten Eyck, a chum of Robert's; Ernest Saunders; Dorothy Marck, engaged to Max, Dr. L. F. Coy; June Haverhill, Wellesley '06; Leslie H. Allen; John Hume, rector of St. Agnes, Edward Potter. The play was given by the high school pupils two years ago with great success.

TROLLEY SLEEPING CAR SERVICE FROM ST. LOUIS TO PEORIA

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A new sleeping car service is scheduled to start on the Illinois Traction system, a line 172 miles long between St. Louis and Peoria, today. The lines includes in its equipment a number of innovations in car building, which are designed to add to the comfort and safety of the passengers.

The joint inventors of the new car are H. E. Chubbuck, general manager, and J. M. Bosenbury, superintendent of motive power and equipment. What will be most appreciated by the traveler who has had to endure the discomforts of an upper berth, is that, differing from the ordinary Pullman, this wonderful space-saving contrivance will have two windows which, at the will of the traveler, can be used for admitting light and air.

Ten upper and 10 lower berths are provided in the middle division of the car. These berths face a center aisle. All berths are 37 inches wide and the top of the lower berth is 18 inches above the floor. The head room between the lower and upper berths is 36 inches. Each pair of sections is set off from its neighbor by a solid mahogany bulkhead pierced by a corridor opening 20 inches wide and 7 feet high.

The two end compartments are each equipped with two sleeping sections with upper and lower berths. In the daytime these sections are made up into seats similar in appearance to those in a Pullman car. At night the seat cushions slide together in conjunction with two auxiliary cushions to form a lower berth with deep springs. The seat backs are hinged at the top and swing upward to form the upper berth. Thus, one of these sections at night has the appearance of a Pullman section. The mattresses and pillows are stored during the daytime underneath the seat cushions.

ARTILLERY DISTRICT OF PORTLAND, MAINE, FACES ALTERATIONS

PORTLAND, Me.—A great change in the concentration of the coast artillery district of Portland is to be made by the war department. Its scope will be fully as large as a similar program which is now being carried on in the coast artillery district of Boston. The work here is being done by Capt. Charles F. Humphrey, Jr., army constructing quartermaster.

Over $100,000 is involved in the new plan, which means the elimination as main posts of several of the garrisons now in the district. They will be made into subposts. The commands now garrisoning them will be changed to the main forts of the district. Detachments will take care of the fortifications on the subposts.

Contracts today for erecting new buildings at Ft. McKinley were awarded by Captain Humphrey. Norman E. Clark of this city has been given the contract to erect a quartermaster storehouse to cost $17,939; John W. Burroughs Company of Portland will build a double set of non-commissioned officers' quarters to cost $13,300, and a guard house to cost $4500. George Dillon of New York is to install modern plumbing conveniences in some of the present buildings at a cost not to exceed $1323, and C. A. Tilton of Portland will install heating apparatus in two sets of non-commissioned officers' quarters at a cost of $948.

Captain Humphrey is in the market for more work, and in a few days will open bids for additional buildings at Ft. Williams. An expenditure of about $90,000 is involved here. The buildings he now has authority to build are an administration building, a guard house, two sets of field officers' quarters, two double sets of captains' quarters, one double lieutenants' quarters, one bakery and one quartermaster storehouse.

Ft. Williams is the headquarters of the district. It is not contemplated to change it.

MAJOR HEARD LEAVES BOSTON.

Maj. John W. Heard, sixth United States cavalry, left Boston today for Ft. Dea Moines, Ia., where he is to command the third squadron, sixth cavalry, just back from the Philippines. Until last November Major Heard was for two years army recruiting officer for New England, with offices in this city.

PRESIDENT APPEALS TO KEEP OHIO MEN IN NATIONAL CONGRESS

WASHINGTON—President Taft, in an address before the Ohio Society of Washington Thursday night, pointed out that the dominating power of the eastern states in Congress lies in the fact that they keep men in office when they place them there.

"Why is it," asked the President, "that the small states of the East exercise so much power in Congress? It is not because an eastern man has any more capacity in the matter of legislation than a western man—certainly not more than an Ohio man. It is because when the eastern states get a good representative they keep him as long as he lives, and then he has an influence that vastly exceeds the more numerical representation of population."

"I don't know whether this is quite germane to the subject of this occasion, but it occurred to me to say this because I feel as though we are all interested in having Ohio well represented, and in having Ohio make herself felt in the legislation of this country by adopting a system that will certainly bring about the weight she is entitled to."

When the President had concluded, Senator Dick, who was on the platform, grasped his hand and shook it enthusiastically. The senator, whose term expires with this Congress and who has a hard fight ahead for reelection, said something to Mr. Taft, who laughed aloud and said to the assemblage of men and women from his native state:

"Senator Dick just told me that he heartily indorses everything I have said on this subject."

A BOSTON GIRL ON LONG WALK

Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston, society leader and devotee of outdoor sports, who is at present in California, has started on a walk of 108 miles, which distance she claims she can negotiate in 55 hours.

Miss Sears left the home of Francis J. Carolan in Burlingame, Cal., early Thursday morning for Delmonte, her destination. She started amid the cheers of her admiring host, at a clip of four miles an hour. She chatted with her companions who went with her—Mrs. Walter Martin, who walked by her side for the first few miles, and Mrs. Laurence Shott's automobile party, who will accompany her along the whole journey, carrying food to be eaten by the way and the outfit that an athlete likes to have with him.

At 9:15 a. m. she passed through Palo Alto, having traveled the first 14 miles in 3 hours 15 minutes. At 10:40 Miss Sears passed Mountain View, walking alone, far ahead of her companions. Miss Sears passed through Santa Clara at 1:35 p. m.

Miss Sears is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Sears of 122 Beacon street, Boston.

POLITICAL EVENT FOR WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Mass.—Plans have been completed for the annual banquet of the Worcester County Republican Club to be held in Association hall, Y. M. C. A. building, in this city, April 18.

The speakers already announced by the committee in charge of the banquet are Gov. Eben S. Draper, Speaker Joseph Walker of the Massachusetts House, Congressman Charles G. Washburn, Mayor James Logan, Herbert Parker of Lancaster, Arthur D. Norcross of Monson, Winfield S. Schuster of East Douglas, ex-Mayor Frederick Fosdick of Fitchburg and Dr. Joseph G. E. Page of Southbridge.

GOVERNOR DRAPER ACCEPTS MARKER

Governor Eben S. Draper has accepted for the state a "marker" which was part of the equipment of the forty-second regiment, Massachusetts volunteers, in the rebellion. The marker was presented by Dick Dowling camp, Confederate Veterans, of Houston, Tex., to the forty-second regiment, which in turn handed it over on Thursday. The flag, which has been in the possession of the Dowling camp for almost half a century, was captured by the Confederates at the battle of Galveston. It will have an honored place among the relics already adorning the hall of flags at the State House.

BAY STATE G. A. R. TO GREET CHIEF

Samuel R. Van Sant of Minnesota. Will Be at the Annual Encampment Next Wednesday.

SAMUEL R. VAN SANT.
Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, who is to attend encampment.

The commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, ex-Gov. Samuel R. Van Sant of Minnesota, is to be the guest of honor at the annual encampment of the Massachusetts department. He is expected to arrive in Boston next Wednesday morning from Providence, where he will attend the encampment of the Rhode Island department on Tuesday.

The encampment of the Massachusetts department will take place on Wednesday and Thursday in Faneuil hall, opening at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning. It will close with a dinner at the American House Thursday afternoon, to which many prominent persons have been invited. The commander-in-chief will be met at the South station by a committee detailed by the department commander and his assistant adjutant-general and escorted to Young's Hotel.

On Thursday he will visit post 5 in Lynn and in the evening will be the guest of the department at the campfire under the auspices of the Massachusetts W. R. C. at the Shawmut church.

DOGS' LICENSES PAYABLE TODAY

Dog licenses should have been renewed today, one month earlier than in previous years, but the police reports show few dog owners complying with the new law. A couple of weeks' respite will be granted, the police in the meantime making a visit to the homes of persons owning dogs and telling them that unless they secure new licenses at once, they will be prosecuted. The date for licensing dogs changed with the new city charter. Heretofore it has been May 1. There are over 11,000 dogs in Boston, the license fees for which are $5, $3 and $2. The money received from this source is turned over by Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara to the city treasury. It is allotted to the appropriation to run the schools of Boston.

Dogs must be licensed in the police division in which they are kept. The captains will allow owners who have a number stamped on a collar to retain this number on the new license, so far as possible.

PRESIDENT GIVES UP ALASKA TRIP

WASHINGTON—One long jaunt was eliminated from the itinerary of the President today when it was definitely decided to abandon the trip to Alaska which had been planned for this summer. But President Taft has journeyed plenty ahead of him for the next two or three months. He will leave Washington Saturday for a flying visit to Millbury and Worcester, Mass. At Millbury he will have a short visit with his aunt, Miss Delia Torrey, and at Worcester he will make a speech before a convention of railroad employees. He will get back to the White House before noon Monday.

MR. MURDOCK SEES QUICK LEGISLATION UNDER NEW RULES

WASHINGTON—Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas, having shown himself to be an irreconcilable insurgent against Speaker Cannon and the rules, is daily increasing his prestige in the House by his sincere efforts to promote harmonious relations between the regulars and the insurgents. He has been in daily conference with members of the rules committee and has pointed out to them the necessity for several minor changes in the code which will completely satisfy the insurgents for the time and will show to the country that the removal of Speaker Cannon from that committee insures a more liberal interpretation of the rules.

"I am satisfied," says Mr. Murdock, "that the new committee, within a reasonable time, will show its desire to be absolutely fair, and will recognize that the deposition of the speaker was intended to imply that the system must also be changed. The committee wants legislative action, and so do the insurgents, and in order that this may be accomplished without friction I think a disposition will be shown to eliminate some of the inequalities of the present rules system."

"I believe that from now until the end of the session Congress will make a record for itself in the way of legislation, both as to quality and quantity. I believe that among other measures the postal reorganization bill and an experimental parcels post bill will be favorably reported by the committee on post offices and post roads."

Among the first resolutions that the new committee will have before it is that introduced by Representative Parsons Thursday, providing that it shall be in order at any time on calendar Wednesday to make a motion that debate be closed. This, he believes, will prevent useless argument and enable the House to legislate more speedily on general bills.

BIG SUM IS RAISED BY LYNN CHURCH

LYNN, Mass.—Members of the First Universalist church of this city at a parish supper Thursday evening subscribed the sum of $23,711 to a fund to carry on the work of the parish. There were about 450 members in attendance.

The subscriptions were made in response to an impromptu plea by the pastor, the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, that the finances of the church be put on a firm basis. Others addressed the gathering on the subject, including several members who are prominent in Lynn and Boston business professional and banking circles.

Among the leading subscribers were Arthur W. Pinkham $2500, Benjamin F. Spinney $2500, Frank Spinney $2500, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Johnson $2000, Benjamin Duake $2000, and a large number of others who subscribed sums from $500 down.

TILESTON SCHOOL PARENTS CONVENTION

The Tileston School Parents Association of Mattapan held a meeting for organization Thursday night in Oakland hall. Refreshments, including a social program were furnished by the teachers and pupils of the Tileston school.

Officers were elected as follows: President, O. S. Beveridge; vice-president, Mrs. T. E. Guild; second vice-president, Frank Duffy; third vice-president, Mrs. Joshua Blampied; recording secretary, Miss A. I. Sullivan; corresponding secretary, T. Mabel Sikes; treasurer, Frank Gormley; director, Mrs. J. B. McKee; executive board, Mrs. T. F. Dugan, Clifford Best, Charles Jones, Mrs. J. C. Neal, Miss Florence M. PLAY AT RADCLIFFE TONIGHT.

This evening the first performance of "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, will take place in the Agassiz House theater under the auspices of the Idler Club of Radcliffe College and the college settlement chapter.

REGARD RE-ELECTION FOR SENATOR LODGE VIRTUALLY ASSURED

Guild is offered sufficient encouragement by his friends. In view of the fact that Mr. Guild has several times stated that he should not again be a candidate for public office, many of his friends have allied themselves with Mr. Lodge and do not expect to see the ex-Governor in the field.

There are unquestionably a number of legislators who would be glad to vote for ex-Gov. John L. Bates if he were a candidate. Some members feel quite strongly about it, but Mr. Bates is said to consider himself out of politics so far as office-holding is concerned, for the time at least, and there seems no likelihood that he will reconsider his determination. His extensive law practice now keeps him extremely busy, and his friends are inclined to think it much more lucrative, and certainly pleasanter in many ways, than office-holding.

There are conditions which might make the canvass of Mr. Lodge much more serious next fall than it now looks to be, as even his friends admit. While a substantial victory for the whole Republican ticket at the state election would practically assure the re-election of Mr. Lodge to the Senate, according to the view of many of the leaders, a defeat of the state ticket or of a substantial part of it might have a serious effect upon his candidacy.

The Republican organization realizes that it is a good thing the campaign next autumn is not for the state ticket alone, but as well for the Legislature which is to choose a senator. It is felt among the stalwart Republicans throughout the state that this issue will bring out a very full poll, nearly as large as at a presidential election, and so aid the whole ticket.

The friends of Mr. Ames are said to believe there are many Republican members of the Legislature who would be glad of an opportunity to vote for some one else for Senator than Mr. Lodge. They think that for good reasons some of these men would not wish their exact position in the matter to be known, and for that reason they are allowing it to be supposed that they are for Mr. Lodge. The supporters of Mr. Ames think when the proper time comes there will be many more Ames men in the Legislature than the friends of Mr. Lodge dream. While this may be true, it does not appeal to party leaders as either probable or possible.

There are several congressional districts in the state now represented by Republicans in which the Democrats have hopes of success. In the second district, Congressman Gillett has been considered fairly sure of reelection. The result in the fourteenth congressional district has made the Democrats surmise that the second may not be a hopeless district, and they will make a sharp contest for their candidate, whoever he may be.

The third district in the past has sent a Democrat to Congress within a few years, and if ex-Congressman John R. Thayer should again be selected by the Democrats as their standard bearer, Congressman Charles G. Washburn of Worcester would be compelled to make an active campaign, although Republicans do not believe he is likely to be defeated. The fourth district may see a contest for the Republican nomination, as well as a sharp campaign for the election. Congressman Charles Q. Tirrell is a candidate for reelection, and the names of several Republicans have been mentioned as likely to oppose him. Chairman Walter Perley Hyl of the railroad commission, a resident of Fitchburg, is one of those mentioned.

In the fifth district Congressman Butler Ames of Lowell may have a fight for renomination. Mayor White of Lawrence has been mentioned as likely to enter the field; in fact has said he would go in, and the former speaker of the Massachusetts House, John N. Cole of Andover, also lives in the district, and is mentioned.

In the fourteenth district there is sure to be a contest for the nomination to succeed Eugene N. Foss. Judge Harris is again mentioned for the Republican nomination, as are Dr. Wheatley of Abington, and the Rev. Melvin S. Nash of Hanover. The friendship of Mr. Harris toward the nomination belongs to their man and that it should be given to him without contest. There is some feeling in the district that the attitude of Mr. Harris during the campaign at the special election would injure him with many of the voters, and that possibly it would be better to nominate some one else.

PROF AGASSIZ'S BODY ARRIVES.

The body of Prof. Alexander Agassiz, who passed away on board the steamer Adriatic, while at sea, arrived at his home in Cambridge this morning. It was accompanied by Max Agassiz, who was returning home with his father from abroad. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Agassiz of Boston met the steamer in New York. The burial services take place at the home in Cambridge at 2 p. m. today.

Playhouse News

Two plays were given under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club Thursday evening at the B. Y. M. C. U. hall, 48 Boylston street. They were "The Horse Thieves," a one-act western drama by Herman Hagedorn, and "Jeanne d'Arc at Vaucouleurs," a three-act historical drama by Will Hutchins.

Interest in the latter drama was great because it was interpreted by the players from the Harrow theater, Deerfield, Mass., who originally produced the play, and the fact that the author played one of the characters.

Cast of "Jeanne d'Arc at Vaucouleurs": Robert de Baudricourt.....Arthur Fuller Jean Fournier.....William Allen Jean de Metz.....Harold Flower Bertrand de Poulangey.....Philip Hall Durand Lassois.....Will Hutchins Henri le Royer.....Paul Hawks Catherine le Royer.....Miss Julia Brown A little maid-servant.....Miss Mabel Brown Jeanne d'Arc.....Miss Kelsey Black

The scene was a simple representation of a peasant cottage interior, and the characters came and went in an action that was continuous in its working out of a crisis in the life of Jeanne. The maid is shown coming to the town when nobody believes in her but an old kinsman, Durand Lassois, a character taken with great sympathy by Will Hutchins. Gradually Jeanne wins the people over to her belief that she has a divinely appointed task, and she finally gains recognition from Captain Baudricourt, by whose aid she will be able to reach the ear of the King. Here the play leaves Jeanne.

The piece is constantly interesting in its dignified representation of an aspect of Jeanne's career. All the characters are clearly drawn. Jeanne herself is outlined with a loving hand, and was played with surprising force and sweetness by Miss Kelsey Black. More than once Miss Black communicated a believing thrill to her hearers. Among the others Miss Mabel Brown was specially well liked as a little maid servant.

The men-at-arms were rather unsoldierly in appearance, and the players showed lack of training in getting their points out to the audience, but these defects of unprofessional players were less in evidence than might be expected. There was an ensemble quality to the performance that added much to the total agreeable effect. The piece was rather ineffective theatrically, but showed many merits on the literary side. It should read well.

Mr. Hagedorn's "The Horse Thieves" was performed by members of the Neighborhood Club of Bedford with this cast: At Bartlett, sheriff of Rio Blanco county.....W. C. Willson

Muir, appointed judge advocate general court-martial, Port Royal; Maj. J. H. Russell, to Washington, duty marine retiring board; Capt. F. C. Lander, to marine barracks, Washington, D. C.; Capt. H. D. South, to command marine detachment on the Delaware.

WOMEN SUSPECT LIQUOR TRAFFIC

HYDE PARK, Mass.—An investigation of alleged illegal liquor traffic in Hyde Park has been taken up by the women of the Current Events Club. It is claimed that the licenses issued by the selectmen to the druggists are abused, and also that a "pony express" business is carried on.

The club has appointed a committee to investigate conditions and make a report. What action shall be taken to stay the alleged traffic has not been discussed. Eliza Bartlett, his wife, Mrs. R. S. Sargent Laura, their daughter.....Miss Ida C. Keay Burt Haskell.....S. B. Dudley Ollie Morrill.....F. A. Chilton Rev. James Clinchwell.....A. W. Horne Little need be said of this play, which has already been reviewed at length in this place. The motivation of the climax, which is the same in its essentials as Bret Harte's "Salome Jane's Kiss," still seems insufficiently prepared for, which may be due to the compression which has been exercised in putting the material for a full length play into one act. The acting was wholly worthy of the play.

World's Latest Financial News

FLUCTUATIONS CONTINUE IN A NARROW GROOVE

Undertone Is Firm, but Prices Refuse to Move in Any Direction and Business Becomes Very Quiet.

LAKE COPPER IS UP

If it had been the intention of the big financial interests to keep New York securities vibrating within a certain price range, they have well succeeded in their efforts. The market has not been permitted to break seriously, good support having been forthcoming when indications of a slump were seen, and prices have not been allowed to advance materially.

Trading today was quiet and fluctuations were small without particular significance. The opening was moderately strong and after some fractional gains had been made business came almost to a standstill. New York Central, St. Paul, Southern Pacific and Steel showed some activity early, but later became quiet. During the first hour fluctuations were mainly confined to fractions.

Bullish reports were sent out about U. S. Steel and the increase in earnings the corporation would be able to show for the current quarter, but they had little effect upon the stock. It opened unchanged at 82½, advanced above 83 and then fell back to the opening price.

Reading came in for its usual share of prominence, but fluctuated within a narrow groove. It opened unchanged at 104½, reacted to 104½, improved to 105½ and then declined to round the opening quotations. There was some trading in St. Paul. It opened unchanged at 140½, dropped the fraction and after advancing above 141 again sagged off.

Republic Iron & Steel opened up ¼ at 35½ and advanced a good fraction. Brooklyn Rapid Transit made the biggest gain in the early trading of any of the New York issues but became dull on the advance. It opened up ¼ at 76½, advanced to 77½ and sold off fractionally.

The local market was quiet. Lake Copper was rather strong. After opening unchanged at 64½ it sold up to 66. North Lake opened up ¼ at 16½ and improved fractionally. Arizona Commercial opened unchanged at 21½, fell back a point and recovered partially. Indiana opened up ½ at 31½ and advanced fractionally. Seattle Electric was strong, advancing from 110 to 114.

Arizona Commercial became quite weak on the Boston market during the afternoon, selling down to 18 at the beginning of the last hour. Lake Copper reacted to its opening price. Boston & Corbin dropped ½, and Shannon also was weak. Pennsylvania was somewhat active in New York, but the market generally was dull.

CHICAGO CURRENCY MOVEMENT.

CHICAGO—The First National Bank received $1,300,000 currency from the interior in March, compared with $3,000,000 in January and $1,500,000 a year ago, or the smallest amount since last October. Its currency shipments for March were $2,800,000, as against $1,800,000 a year ago. February receipts and shipments were about the same as last year.

ONLY REGULAR LIST TRADED IN

Unlisted Department of New York Stock Exchange Is Now Abolished—Applications Yet to Be Acted On.

NEW YORK—The order of the governors of the stock exchange that the unlisted department be abolished is now effective. At 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon securities of a total par value of $16,592,500 remained in that department, of which stocks formed $11,142,500 and bonds $5,450,000.

On Feb. 24, 1910, the aggregate of stocks, par value, in the unlisted department was $14,625,100 and of bonds $47,878,700; in July, 1909, when this resolution was adopted, the total was $585,975,700 stocks and $87,898,254 bonds. In the period intervening the balance has been transferred to the regular list, which was formerly designated as the listed department, or has applied to be so transferred.

Great Northern Ore. with its 1,500,000 shares, was transferred to the regular list Thursday. The following companies whose stocks were in the unlisted department were the last to make application for regular listing, which applications are still to be passed upon:

Par value.
Federal Sugar Refining Co. of New York, common $5,677,200
Federal Sugar Refining Co. of New York, preferred 3,322,500
International Power Co. 6,400,000
Metropolitan Street Railway 5,500,400
Standard Con. Mining & Milling 2,000,000

Of the stocks and bonds, application to transfer which was not made, the majority were securities of surface railroad companies in Brooklyn and New York, the latter being mostly owned by Interborough-Metropolitan Company.

Two mining companies, Horn Silver and Kingston & Pembroke Iron Company, were allowed to lapse, along with the traction stocks and bonds.

Completing her first passage from Glasgow to this port since her collision with the abandoned and sinking Russian steamship Korea, the Allan liner Ionian, Captain Eastaway, arrived here today bringing 68 cabin passengers and 146 steerage. The steamer berthed at the Allan pier, Mystic wharves, where longshoremen are breaking out her large cargo.

In her collision with the Korea 40 feet of her hull was damaged. Repairs were not completed in time for her to sail on schedule, so the Parisian sailed in her stead. The Ionian sailed for this port March 19, via Moville, Ire., and Halifax, N. S., and included in her cargo are 10,000 firebricks, 320 bales of paper stock, 1205 packages of case goods, 992 boxes of clay pipes, 327 cases of granite, 717 bales of wool, 325 barrels of oil, 810 bags sugar, 227 cases of boxes, 600 bags of steel grit, 140 steel billets, 600 bags of glue, 350 bags of sulphate of ammonia and a quantity of general freight.

Steamship Anglin of the Wilson & Furness-Leyland line, Captain Toozes, leaves here this afternoon for London with a fair cargo, including 400 head of cattle, 1400 tons of San Domingo sugar, 700 tons of flour, 400 tons of provisions and a large amount of general freight.

Laden with 1,412,426 feet of white pine and hardwood lumber, the British ship Rhine, Captain Bergman, is expected to sail Saturday for Buenos Aires.

The Leyland line steamer Caledonian, which has been laid up at Manchester for several weeks replacing a cracked shaft and undergoing other repairs, left that port Wednesday for Boston.

A notice to mariners today says: The following named buoys heretofore reported withdrawn for the winter were replaced and winter spars withdrawn: Boston harbor: Seventy-four bar buoy, No. 10, second class nun, March 28; Tofdy Rocks buoy, No. 1, second class can, March 28; Hunt ledge buoy, H S, second class nun, March 28; South Cut buoy, No. 1, third class can, March 28; North Cut buoy, No. 3, third class can, March 28; Spiers Stand North End buoy, No. 1, third class can, March 29; Spiers Stand South End buoy, No. 2, third class can, March 29; Bunkin Island shoal buoy, No. 1, second can, March 28; Bunkin Island buoy, o. 3, third class can, March 28.

The largest number of immigrants to sail for Boston on one steamer for nearly three years are due here next Thursday on the Cunarder Ivernia, Captain Potter, from Liverpool and Queens-town. The liner has on board 2078 passengers, of whom 1855 are steerage, most of whom are immigrants; 43 saloon and 380 second cabin. The steamer left Queenstown at noon Wednesday and should reach her berth at East Boston next Thursday morning.

The immigration officials say there is every indication of the present year being a record breaker in the number of immigrants coming to this port.

Not quite 300,000 pounds of fish reached T wharf this morning in 17 arrivals. Of this amount 184,500 pounds was cod, the remainder small fares of hake, cusk and pollock bringing the total up to 296,900 pounds. The arrivals were: Elva L. Spurling, with 22,500 pounds, Dixie 2500, Mary J. Ward 3500, sloop Minerva 3500, Yankee 7000, W. M. Goodspeed 13,000, Gladys & Nellie 28,000, Sadie M. Numan 22,000, Elizabeth W. Numan 13,500, Aristocrat 33,000, Harmony 25,000, Seacombe 15,000, Rose Cubral 16,000, Josephine de Costa 61,000, Motor 5000, Maud F. Silva 12,000, A. C. Newhall 12,000.

T wharf dealers' prices Friday per hundredweight: Haddock $1.55@2.25, large cod $2.25, small cod $1.75@2, large hake $2.25, small hake 95c, cusk $1.50, pollock $1.05@1.25.

BANK CLEARINGS OF CALIFORNIA

February bank clearings at San Francisco increased 27 per cent over February, 1909, Los Angeles 24 per cent, Sacramento 60 per cent, San Diego 40 per cent and Fresno 30 per cent. The decrease of legal reserves in San Francisco was from 35.93 per cent on Feb. 19, 1909, to 27.73 per cent on Jan. 31, 1910, the general increase of deposit liabilities without a corresponding increase of cash showing a tendency to inflation.

Excellent prospects for fruit and grain have been greatly improved in nearly all parts of the state within the past 10 days. In the southern district the hay and grain crops have been saved from perhaps serious damage. The fruit orchards are in better shape than for years.

LARGER RECEIPTS BREADSTUFFS DURING MONTH OF FEBRUARY

Light Arrivals of Livestock at Interior Markets a Feature of Domestic Commerce, as Shown by Reports of Bureau of Statistics of Commerce and Labor.

WASHINGTON—Light arrivals of live stock and large gains in the receipts of breadstuffs at the principal interior markets are the chief characteristic features of the domestic commerce during February, as reported by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

The southern movements of rice and cotton were light; had weather and a temporary shrinkage in building operations are probably responsible for the smaller volume of the lumber movement, while the movements of coal, coke and iron products were, on the other hand, unusually heavy.

Live stock receipts during February at seven primary interior markets, 2,763,204 head, were considerably below the corresponding totals in 1909 and 1908 of 3,071,211 and 3,680,734 head, marking a fall of 10 per cent when compared with the preceding year's figures. Of the monthly total, 572,420 head were cattle, 40,892 calves, 1,506,470 hogs, 607,592 sheep, and 35,830 horses and mules.

As compared with corresponding 1909 figures, the receipts of cattle and calves show larger, while those of hogs, sheep, horses and mules smaller totals. The largest decrease is shown in the monthly receipts of hogs, which were about 20 per cent below the average February receipts for the preceding five years.

The February receipts of hogs at Chicago show an even larger decline from the corresponding five-year average. The inbound live-stock movement at the same markets for the first two months of the year, 5,848,096 head, shows a similar decline, the largest loss affecting again the receipts of hogs, which in the case of Chicago were almost one third below the average February receipts for the preceding five years.

A similar decline is shown by the February receipts of live stock at the four leading Atlantic seacoast cities, 607,171 head, as compared with the February, 1909 and 1908, figures, 699,273 and 788,388 head, respectively.

Of the total reported for the month, or four weeks of the month, 85,083 head were cattle; 34,104 calves; 303,812 hogs, and 184,172 sheep. Just as in the case of the interior markets, the monthly receipts of cattle and calves were higher than those of hogs and sheep considerably lower than a year ago.

The live stock receipts at these cities for the two months of the year aggregated 1,270,495 head, compared with 1,494,207 head received during the first two months of 1908, the decrease affecting chiefly the number of hogs and sheep received at these cities.

Grain receipts during February at 19 leading interior markets show the unusually high total of 65,771,917 bushels, the gains affecting equally the principal markets and the various items. Receipts at these markets since Sept. 1 aggregated 445,951,445 bushels, compared with 422,053,687 and 413,233,740 bushels reported for the 1908-9 and 1907-8 seasons, the gain being due mainly to heavier receipts of wheat and corn.

The flour shipments during the month from 11 leading milling centers, 2,824,118 barrels, compare favorably with the February, 1909 and 1908, shipments of 2,733,300 and 2,726,403 barrels. The eastward trunk line movement of grain at Chicago and Chicago junction points during the eight weeks of the year 22,874,000 bushels, fell below the corresponding figures for the earlier years, and the same is true of the flour movement for the same period, 917,508 barrels.

Grain and flour receipts during February at four leading Atlantic seaports, 13,826,909 bushels, compare favorably with the 10,829,881 bushels received during February, 1909. Of the total received 1,837,483 bushels were wheat, 4,617,791 bushels corn and 1,083,512 barrels flour. The grain and flour receipts at these cities for the two months of the year totaled 26,565,458 bushels, compared with 23,346,008 and 36,593,050 bushels received during the two month period in 1909 and 1908.

Coastwise receipts during the month of southern pine at New York, 32,614,309 feet, were one third short of the corresponding 1909 figures. February receipts of lumber at Boston, 16,723,483 feet, were slightly below the corresponding 1909 receipts of 16,845,523 feet. Arrivals during the month of redwood at California points, 28,527,895 feet, on the other hand, compare favorably with February, 1909, arrivals of 20,057,183 feet.

Sight receipts of cotton during the month totaled 555,513 bales, compared with 1,022,876 and 980,495 bales received during February, 1909 and 1908. Port receipts during the month show the correspondingly small total of 330,900 bales, compared with 710,747 and 700,979 bales for February, 1909 and 1908.

The quantities taken by American spinners during the six months of the present crop season, 3,046,471 bales, were over 12 per cent below the quantity taken during the corresponding period of the preceding season, though the smaller total is due almost entirely to the decreased takings of the northern mills.

American stocks at the end of February are given as 1,264,318 bales, compared with 1,495,851 and 1,122,701 bales reported on the same dates in 1909 and 1908. The United States census office reports, the total quantity of cotton ginned during the present season as 10,290,395 bales of 500 pounds each, compared with 13,587,306 and 11,375,461 bales for the 1908-9 and 1907-8 seasons.

The 1909-10 crop appears thus to have been below any cotton crop since 1903-4, when 10,045,015 bales, of 500 pounds each, were reported by the same office.

February receipts of wool at Boston aggregated 25,211,153 pounds, compared with 26,912,310 pounds received during February, 1909, the loss being due chiefly to the smaller domestic receipts for the month.

The general improvement in the traffic situation of the country is indicated by the increased number of cars handled by 31 car-service associations and demurrage bureaus, the February figures, 2,331,364 cars, comparing favorably with corresponding February, 1909 and 1908, figures of 1,952,100 and 1,710,392 cars.

The total number of cars handled during the first two months of the year, 4,736,478 cars, was 20 per cent and 35 per cent larger than for the corresponding period in 1909 and two years ago.

OPENING OF LAKE NAVIGATION SOON

NEW YORK—A factor in grain prices is the early opening of lake navigation. On the lower lakes boats are running between the ports of Lake Erie, but the connecting links between the upper and the lower lakes are not yet cleared of ice.

Grain tonnage from Lake Superior ports is in readiness for the earliest date of the clearing of the channels in the strait of Mackinac, Sault Ste. Marie canals and Detroit river. The average date of the opening of the canals is about the middle of April.

Last year the movement of freight by the Sault Ste. Marie canals totaled 57,895,000 net tons. Grain shipments amounted to nearly 200,000 bushels, including 113,000,000 bushels of wheat. Total freight receipts at all lake ports for the season were 78,733,000 net tons.

Explorer and Wife Seeing Boston

SIR ERNEST H. SHACKLETON AND LADY SHACKLETON.
The British Antarctic explorer and his wife saw Boston sights from touring car.

Sir Ernest Shackleton, the south polar explorer, is spending today in Brockton, where he will lecture this evening on his experiences during his search for the south pole. Lady Shackleton plans to spend the day in Boston, shopping and sight-seeing.

Sir Ernest left the Touraine shortly before 9 o'clock this morning for the South station. As he was boarding his automobile he expressed himself as highly gratified by the enthusiastic public greeting he has had in Boston, which reached its climax during his lecture before a brilliant audience in Symphony hall Thursday evening.

Under military escort Sir Ernest proceeded from the Victorian Club, where he had dined, to the hall, where he was greeted by the honorary committee representative of the educational, social and professional life of Boston. Dr. Richard C. MacLaurin, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, made the address of welcome to the explorer, who was introduced to the audience by M. Graeme Haughton.

Sir Ernest began by telling of the difficulties of preparing for the trip, and of his departure with a half-equipped expedition and a Union Jack presented him by the Queen of England. The voyage to New Zealand was uneventful, but after that the days were filled with adventure. When the party of 15 left the Nimrod for the final dash there began a series of great privations and occasion after occasion for self-sacrifice and daring.

These adventures were related with modesty by the explorer. His fine sense of humor lightened the whole address. Moving pictures showed vividly the details of the trip, and these were supplemented with many clear stereoscopic views.

The southernmost point reached by Lieutenant Shackleton and his party was close to 100 miles from the pole, as near as they could make out with the instruments in their possession. At that point, on a plateau 10,000 feet above the level of the sea, they planted the union jack that Queen Alexandra had entrusted to them. Then they fought their way back to the Nimrod. Evidence was found that there was once a warm climate in that region, and many botanical and geological specimens were brought back.

Sir Ernest spoke Thursday afternoon before the Harvard Travelers' Club at the Harvard Union, and received an enthusiastic greeting. Later he went to the Oakley Country Club for tea.

LOWELL Y. M. C. A. BUILDING PLANS

LOWELL, Mass.—Tentative plans for the new Y. M. C. A. building have been submitted to the building committee of the association. It is hoped that all the details of the building will be satisfactorily arranged so that it may be started by the middle of May. Architect Husey's plans underwent a searching examination.

The architect submitted four plans to the committee. The one assented to calls for a men's entrance in Merrimack street and a boys' entrance in Shattuck street. The main building will be along the canal and will be four stories in height. At the end toward Market street will be placed the large gymnasium.

CASE OF JAPANESE SPIES.

MANILA—Lawyers have obtained a writ of habeas corpus from the supreme court directing military authorities to produce in court at 10 o'clock this morning the two Japanese who were arrested in connection with a plot to get plans of the fortifications at Corregidor, Cavite, through the purchase of photographs from an American soldier.

NAT GOODWIN BUYS A RANCH.

SAN JACINTO, Cal.—Nat Goodwin, the actor, and A. F. Webster have just bought the Gladysdale ranch for $35,000. About 10 days ago Webster and the actor purchased the Zuber ranch of 900 acres adjoining the Gladysdale property on the west. The two ranches contain 860 acres.

SENATE UNMASKS PRICE AGREEMENT

Southern Wholesale Grocers Said to Have Exclusive Organization Which Employs "Influence."

WASHINGTON—The Senate investigators believe that they have at least one clue to the cost of living in the testimony given by officers of the Southern Wholesale Grocers Association. It points to manufacturers working through organizations of wholesale and retail dealers as upholders of unreasonably high prices.

The manufacturer fixes a liberal price at which the wholesalers and retailers shall sell the goods. With a good profit assured, these dealers are glad to enter into the arrangement. The danger is that some dealers will accept less than the regular profit in order to get a big trade. To counteract that it has been considered well to gather dealers into an exclusive organization "for the general good." The testimony showed that while the Southern Association had only 600 members it compiled and printed a list of 1200 wholesale dealers in the southern field.

It was explained as to the Southern Association that when a man on the list opened business with a manufacturer he signed an agreement to stick to the regular prices. If he failed the "moral force of influence" was brought to bear. The general information of the committee is that the dealer who is "not a regular" finds, in such cases, that he does not get any more goods.

SENATOR ABBOTT PASSES ON.

Hon. Gideon B. Abbott of Dorchester, senator from the ninth Suffolk district, passed away early today. He was a graduate of the Boston public schools and of Harvard University in the class of '97. He entered the House of Representatives in 1906 and was first elected to the Senate in 1907, taking his seat in 1908. He was chairman of the committee on street railways and a member of the committees on public lighting and on election laws.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

The two properties numbered 867 and 871 Boylston street, just east of Gloucester street, have been transferred to Arthur H. Marks of the Diamond Rubber Company of Akron, O. The two properties together have a frontage of 44 feet and an area of 4928 square feet, and are assessed on a total of $64,000. It is the intention of the purchaser to at once erect a six-story fireproof building as headquarters for the New England business of the Diamond Rubber Company. The parcel at 867 Boylston street was transferred by William H. Rothwell, who acquired title last month, and No. 871 Boylston street by Dr. Walter G. Chase, who acquired title in January. The negotiations were conducted by Whitcomb, Wood & Co.

The firm of Whitcomb, Wood & Co. of 10 State street has been dissolved by limitation, and is succeeded by Lawrence and Howard Whitcomb under the firm name of Whitcomb & Co., who will continue the business. Leslie C. Wead, who retires from the first named firm, and Harold K. Wead, heretofore associated with that firm, have opened offices at 35 Congress street for the care and management of trusts and other real estate.

The twentieth anniversary dinner of the Boston Real Estate Exchange, which will be held at the Hotel Somerset on Thursday evening, April 7, promises to be one of the most successful functions ever held in the history of the organization. The committee of arrangements, of which John W. Dunlop is chairman, has spared no pains or expense to make this occasion one that will long be remembered.

Among the notable speakers will be P. Francis Murphy, who is recognized not only in this country but also in Europe as one of the best after-dinner speakers. Another is Allan Robinson of New York, who is recognized as one of the experts on real estate in this country, and who has given years to the protection of real estate from adverse legislation. Mr. Robinson's theme will be "The Tendency to Overburden Real Estate."

Another important speaker is A. Platt Andrews, director of the United States mint at Philadelphia, who will speak on the relation of sound finance to property value. Joseph B. Russell, president of the exchange, will preside and make a short address, and Frederic H. Vaux, the secretary and treasurer, and ex-President Francis Peabody, Jr., will also speak of the past work of the organization. The committee of arrangements have also some interesting features in store for the members.

SOUTH AND WEST END CHANGES.
Papers have gone to record at the Suffolk registry of deeds whereby Frederick Kem takes title from Simon Kaplan to a large lot of vacant land, situated in Worcester street, South End. This is one of the very few lots of vacant land now unimproved in the city proper, and it is the intention of the new owner to begin operation at once in the construction of several brick apartment houses for investment. The parcel involves 13,292 square feet, taxed for $20,900.

The Estabrook real estate trust has sold to Clarence H. Lewis, title coming through James H. Pickering, the estate numbered 16 and 18 Chardon street, West End, consisting of a brick building and 1936 square feet of land. The total assessed value is $20,300, of which $15,000 is on the land. The location is near Bowdoin square. Joseph Balch represented the seller and T. A. Murray the purchaser.

JAMAICA PLAIN—NEEDHAM.
The homestead of the late Charles B. Cummings at 40 Greenwood avenue, Jamaica Plain, has been purchased by Edward L. Strong, who will occupy. The property consists of a 12-room house and 10,000 feet of land, all assessed on a valuation of $12,000. The sale was made through the office of R. S. Barrows.

Mrs. Annie F. Watkins has sold to Joseph B. Thorpe her estate on Webster street, Needham Heights, consisting of a house, stable and 140,185 feet of land, assessed for $4200, of which $1500 is on the land. The estate is one of the old landmarks of Needham, being known as the Deacon Kingsbury estate and it is the intention of the new owner to remodel and improve the property.

Mrs. S. F. Light of Needham has purchased from Miss Emma E. Walker 12,754 feet of land in Hummell street, Needham Heights, and will erect an eight-room house thereon.

NEW MERCANTILE BUILDING.
The work of razing the building at the corner of State and Broad streets, recently purchased by S. Vorenberg, has been completed, and excavation began this week. A six-story business and office building, which is to have all modern conveniences, will be erected on the site.

The new structure, which will be numbered 111 State street and 3 Broad street, will cover an area of about 1600 square feet, having a frontage of 40 feet on each street. The exterior construction will be of granite, steel and glass for the first two stories and limestone above the second story.

In designing the interior, the architect, Arthur H. Bowditch of 7 Water street, has aimed at beauty, as well as convenience. The first two stories are undivided, but will be divided later as necessity may require. The floors above the second are to be divided into numerous conveniently arranged offices.

The interior finish, except for the corridors, will be oak, with maple floors. On the office floors the partitions will be of glass and oak.

The first floor corridors are to be finished in marble, with mosaic floors, and the upper corridors in oak, with terrazzo floors. Each of the offices is to have ample wardrobes and bowls, separate from the lavatories with which each floor will be provided.

The basement will be finished and have direct entrance from Broad street. The building is to cost about $45,000 above the land, and Mr. Vorenberg expects it will be completed about Sept. 1.

LECTURE BY MRS. TRYON.
Mrs. Kate Tryon gave her illustrated lecture on "Days With Birds" Thursday evening at the public library before a large audience. She told her hearers that the early spring birds arrived from the South this year as early as March 1, whereas they usually appear about March 10. She expressed regret that the custom of placing bird houses in trees near houses is falling into disuse.

The World's Largest Universities

ALTHOUGH 22 German universities are reported as having an aggregate of more than 50,000 students only two or three of these universities exceed in size a number of the other great continental schools. In fact, Berlin and Munich are the only German universities that outrank in size the great schools of either Italy, Spain, England, Austria-Hungary or Russia, and the University of Paris has four times as many students as any German university except those of Berlin, Munich, Leipzig and Bonn, while the University of Lyons is considerably larger than most German universities.

The University of Madrid is almost as large as Munich in numbers, and the University of Naples is of about the same size as Madrid. Several English universities are above any but the largest four in Germany.

The University of Vienna comes next in size after Munich and the Czech University at Prague is larger than any but four of the German universities. It has long surpassed in size the ancient German university of the same city.

Budapest has a university but little inferior to the greatest German universities. Even the University of Athens ranks only just below Bonn with its 3800 students and the University of Rome, which is the third in Italy, is between Freiburg and Breslau, the latter of which has nearly 2350 students.

Denmark's one university, that of Copenhagen, ranks along with Heidelberg, which stands ninth in the list of German universities. Two other Scandinavian universities, those of Upsala in Sweden and Christiania in Norway, are larger than the six smaller German universities, and the far northern University of Helsingfors in Finland ranks with the first six.

Several of the Russian universities when they are not shut up for liberality of political opinion, have as many students as any but the four or five greatest German institutions.

Below the great University of Madrid there are two or three ancient schools of Spain with from 1810 to more than 3000 students, and the single Portuguese university, that of Coimbra, one of the most picturesque seats of learning in the world, by reason of its clinging to medieval dress and customs, ranks above seven or eight of the German universities.

At least two of the provincial universities of France rank with the first 10 universities of Germany. The Italian University of Turin stands above Freiburg in numbers.

Four or five universities of the United States rank with the first three German institutions, but would hardly do so were the undergraduates counted out. In South America the University of Buenos Aires stands with the first four or five German universities, and is growing. At least one other South American university ranks with the great schools, —Victoria (B. C.) Colonist.

Where Every Drop Counts

In the Yakima valley, Washington, where the big apples are grown, and bearing orchards sell at $1000 an acre, rain is scarce. Irrigation is practised everywhere. But now and then during the growing season a light rain will fall for a few minutes. These rains are highly prized, for irrigating water is measured closely, and served to each user in proportion to his acreage.

Last summer a fruit grower who owns forty acres of orchard was rejoicing in one of these precipitations of moisture, when one of his hired men entered the house.

"Why don't you stay in out of the rain?" inquired the fruit grower.

"Oh, that's all right," replied the man. "A little dew like that doesn't bother me a bit; I can work right along just the same."

"That isn't the point!" exclaimed the rancher. "Next time it rains, you come into the house. I want that water on the land!" —Youth's Companion.

Short Talks to the Gardeners

As the warm weather begins thoughts of many turn to their flower and vegetable gardenings. The national council of horticulture sends out the following hints which will be read with interest by many who plan for an outdoor plot this coming summer:

If seeds for the flower and vegetable gardens are not already in the hot beds, or in boxes or pots placed near a sunny window, then the amateur gardener who wants to keep abreast of his neighbor when warm weather comes would better prepare his hot bed or boxes at once.

The simpler method of raising plants to be set out after all danger of frost is over, is to sow seed in boxes or pots to be kept indoors. The boxes should have holes for drainage in the bottom, but should not be so open as to let the soil dry. Ordinary garden soil may be used, in the bottom, but on top there should be a lighter soil.

Set the box in the sunlight by the window, but shield it from the direct rays of the sun. Keep the soil well stirred to prevent it baking.

The first flower seed to sow after the pansies should have been started some weeks earlier in the house, or better still good plants may be bought at the florists and set out at once. It is to be noted that little pansy plants are the best. They will grow better and bloom better and longer than the big fat ones which have been carried over since last fall.

A week or ten days after planting the first seed, if the weather holds good the wrinkled peas, beets, and other seeds may be planted. Again, a week after these, a planting of early sweet corn (Golden Bantam is the best) may be tried although it is a little risky still. By May 20 most seeds can be planted and most bedding plants can be set out. Corn, melons, cucumbers, geraniums, asters, lobelia, and all except the most tender things are reasonably safe.

Coleus and very tender plants should not be set out until early June and while bush beans may be planted in late May, the limas should not be put in the ground until June 1. For the extreme northern states these dates are too early while the Ohio river line is approached, the dates are late. —Jamesville Gazette.

In Some Vast Wilderness

A MOUNTAIN CAMP.

IN the center of this picture may be seen the little group of camps that are the only civilization of this wilderness of hills and forests. It lies in an open space with the off-look to the distant tree-clad slopes and with the tangle of low-growing trees and bushes all around the rocky meadow or clearing. The upper cut shows the work of beavers in this same wood region, trees wholly sawn through, and the beginnings of a cut in the tree at the right. The outdoors world is a book of never-ceasing delight, and its leaves are just now beginning to open wide again for the joy of all who will linger to read.

AN EVERPRESENT HELP

THE psalmist sang, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble," and the Christian of today delights to meditate upon the pure and uplifting faith of the sweet singer of Israel. What joy and peace must have come into the life of him who could say, speaking from the richness of his own experience, "God is our refuge and strength." Sooner or later there comes a time in the lives of all mortals when they desire more than all else a place of refuge from the storm. Many times the words above quoted are recalled and frequently the earnest longing of the heart is that the sweet assurance of those who walked with God in the days of old might today enrich the lives of the heavenly homesick and lift the burdens from the shoulders of those who are weary and heavy laden. But mortal belief is saying, Not so; you can not expect in this age to have the conscious assurance of God's everpresence and power that was vouchsafed to the people whose privilege it was to live in the days of the prophets and apostles. And mortals have tried to content themselves with the measure of God's goodness and love that has been made known to them, because they believed that what they received was all that God intended for them to experience at this time.

No one will deny that men and women are greatly in need of that which will enable them to overcome the discords of mortal existence. The hope of ever finding a material remedy for all the discords of earth has long since ceased to be the dream of even the most optimistic. The most that can be hoped for is a much improved condition and some alleviation of the troubles which annoy and perplex. It is indeed strange that mortals have been led to believe that the suffering and inharmonious of this world which cannot be overcome by material means and methods must be endured because it is the divine will that all things should be as they are. This belief is robbing the people of the only effectual remedy there is for the evils they suffer, because it prevents the exercise of a proper faith in Him who is able to save from everything unlike Himself.

Christian Science teaches that mortals need not suffer in vain. There is a remedy for all the discords of earth and those who are learning to turn to God for help are encouraged to "content for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." The living, practical faith which was the rich heritage of the early Christians, is within the reach of all who gain the right concept of God and are obedient to His commandments. If one could divest himself of all preconceived opinions and come as a little child to the study of the teachings and life and works of the Master, he could not come to the conclusion that any manifestation of evil is ever the expression of the divine will. On the contrary he would be convinced that Christianity, as taught and demonstrated by Jesus the Christ, is the way of salvation from all evil. The sense of God as far removed from the affairs of daily experience would give place to the realization of God's everpresence and His power to help at all times. Who can estimate the value of such a faith as this? It is indeed the pearl of great price and one might well go and sell all that he has that he may obtain it, and even then the sacrifice would be as nothing compared with what he received in return.

An everpresent, all-sufficient help is within human reach and the right interpretation of God's word makes possible its attainment. God has not separated Himself from what He creates, neither has He left humanity at the mercy of a power opposed to Himself which compels obedience to laws not divinely instituted. Nothing but mortal, material beliefs seems to separate man from God. These beliefs are not intelligent and they lose their seeming power when they are seen in their true light. Mortals have accepted these beliefs for what they seem to be and oftentimes they are found contending for the reality of the evils which hold them in bondage. The way out of discord is to understand the nothingness of that which has caused the inharmonious. Nothing is real except that which God creates and to believe in the reality of that which does not have its origin in the one divine cause is to dishonor God.

Christian Science teaches that God is the only power, the only cause and creator, the Life, intelligence and substance of man and the universe. Thus it is seen that mortal beliefs do not separate man from God, and if this be true it is not possible for the real man to suffer the discords which are a constituent part of mortal existence. The truth about God and men is the remedy and this truth is ever-present and readily apparent to those who have eyes to see. It is possible for every honest student of this Science to begin the demonstration thereof and prove for himself whether the statements are correct and the conclusions rightly drawn. When he learns from experience that even a slight understanding of Truth brings to him a degree of freedom he had not known before he will be encouraged to strive for the higher understanding which delivers him from all evil.

Christian Science appeals to the truly repentant sinner, the one who has grown weary of the ways of evil and earnestly desires the good. It causes him to feel that he can turn to divine Love and receive the help he needs. To the sick as well as the sinful comes the realization that God is an ever-present help and he need not continue to suffer the pains of a false sense of existence. His birthright is health, strength and joy and there is no reason why he should not be free and devote his life to the service of good. To those who are burdened with fear and anxiety the saving power of Truth and Love is revealed as a glorious reality. Sweet, indeed, are the words of the Master, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." The word spoken through the prophet Isaiah is to all men, "Fear thou not; for I am thy God," and Christian Science makes it possible to realize the fulfillment of this prophecy in human experience today.

Newspaper English

Albert L. Blair, a veteran newspaper man of Brooklyn, recently entertained the Business Men's Association of Bridgeport, Conn., with a description of the inside workings of the newspaper. During his talk he discussed different phases of the profession, which he declared is one of high calling and second only to the ministry and pedagogy. The reporter, he said, is a necessary nuisance, and is the man who really makes the paper. Many specimens of newspaper English came in for a grilling. Among them he said a man never says a thing nowadays. He "makes a statement," he "states." The bride always "comes in on the arm" of her father or somebody else. "I consider that a great feat," he declared, "to be able to carry a woman on one's arm." It is second only to the feat of Byron, who said he stood on the Bridge of Sighs in Venice with a palace 'on' one hand and a prison 'on' the other. Byron was a poet and an athlete, so I believe he did what he said. Another one is the "inclemency" of the weather. At a banquet there is always a "bounteous repast to which full justice was done." "Whenever I read anything like that I can hear a lot of people in a hall gobbling up food." —Editor and Publisher.

PROGRESS IN THE SUDAN

AN interesting lecture was delivered by Maj. A. E. Stanton, ex-Governor of Khartum, at the Royal Colonial Institute, London, on Feb. 15. In the course of his address he said that the Sudan was a Christian country prior to the Arab invasion about the year 700 A. D., when the Moslem creed was introduced and all Christian churches and monuments were razed to the ground. Remains of Christian churches were to be seen to this day at Soba, 10 miles south of Khartum, and in various places in the Dongola province.

It was in the year 1820 that the combined Turkish and Egyptian armies of the first Khedive Muhammad Ali invaded the Sudan and carried all before them. On their arrival at the junction of the Blue and White Niles, the spot on which Khartum now stands was recognized as affording a most excellent site for the headquarters of the invading army, owing to its strategic advantages. It was thus that Khartum became the capital of the newly conquered provinces.

The revenue for the first year after the reconquest of the Sudan by the combined Turkish and Egyptian forces was £8000. At the present time the revenue is well over £1,000,000 and the prospect is most encouraging.

Someday Khartum would be the largest city in Africa and the center of an enormous cotton trade, for in 50 years time the Sudan would provide all the

Krupp Workers' Badge

Employees of the Krupp works can easily be distinguished, even when attired in their Sunday best. Every workman, on his enrolment, is presented with a curiously fashioned scarfpin, composed of a miniature artillery shell made of platinum and set in silver. After 20 years' service he receives a second pin, modeled on the same lines and mounted in gold. The higher grades of employees, including the engineers and those employed in the counting-house, wear their shells in the form of sleeve links. The workmen are very proud of this distinction, which they call the Order of the Shell and wear on every possible occasion. —San Francisco Argonaut.

Wages on the Panama Canal

The West Indian laborer is paid 90 cents for a day of eight hours, with quarters. The European laborer receives $1.80 for eight hours, with free quarters. The standard rate for American mechanics is 65 cents an hour in gold. The average compensation received by American employees is $150 per month. The average monthly compensation of laborers and others who are reckoned with on the silver basis is about $35 a month. There are approximately about 44,000 employees in the isthmus on the payrolls of the commission, about 5000 of whom are Americans. The Americans are mostly mechanics, skilled artisans and all classes, clerks and higher officials. —New York American.

A Millionaire Lecturer

Joseph Fels, who made millions as a manufacturer and now lives in Philadelphia and London and devotes $50,000 a year to the single-tax propaganda here and in England, is lecturing in this country. Mr. Fels has had a large part in organizing single-tax sentiment, and he declares that the single tax will be a pressing issue in this country as well as in England from this time forth. —Exchange.

The April Day

A gush of bird-song, a pattern of dew,

PUCCINI'S HOME

Composer Has a Beautiful Residence on an Italian Lake.

Americans who have been delighted by Giacomo Puccini's operas, "Madam Butterfly," "Manon Lescaut," "La Boheme," "La Tosca" and "Le Villi," will be interested to learn something of his lonely but beautiful abode, where the composer wrote those tuneful works, says a Pisa (Italy) correspondent of the New York World.

On the shore of Lake Massaciucoli, not far from this city, but in a solitude where nature is mistress still, Puccini built for himself a retreat which he calls Torre del Lago. Outside the house is simple. Its white marble walls shine in the sun's rays with virgin radiance. Within Puccini's home is beautiful, filled with artistic objects, books, pictures, tapestries—one might call it luxurious were it not so comfortable.

Every room is flooded with sunlight. The largest room, an immense apartment, has five great windows, which look out on the terrace and gardens. A corner of this room, protected by rails of carved wood, is dedicated to the melodic muse. In this corner is a flat desk at which Puccini has composed all his operas. Back of the desk stands a piano, to which he turns to express in sound the music thought he has just put on paper. Behind the piano again is a large bookcase filled with volumes which Puccini has bought in his travels or which have been presented to him as souvenirs. Much of his leisure time indoors he passes in reading.

A Good Correspondent

A pretty story is running in the Children's Star, about a great many things that interest boys and girls, but one little bit will bear taking out. It is about Evelyn, a little girl of ten or twelve, who has a favorite dog, a big St. Bernard, whom the family all call George W. The splendid fellow is so lonely when the children go away from home on a visit that Evelyn always writes him a letter during her absence. Whoever is left at home receives the letter (addressed "George W., care of —" the one at home), and then reads it to the dog with great emphasis on all the "good old fellows," and so on, and then gives him just so many pats as are ordered by the little writer. No one would dare to fail to read the letter, for when Evelyn comes home she always asks all about it, and whether George seemed pleased to hear from her.

Spread of Municipal Reform

THE spread of the reform movement in municipal affairs in this country is gratifyingly shown by the statement that fifty-six cities have adopted the commission style of government. The latest to make the change are Eau Claire, Wis., and Sioux City, Ia., the latter being the sixth city in the Hawkeye state to make the experiment. The fifty-six cities are scattered over sixteen states, from Massachusetts in the East to Texas in the South and California in the West. No municipality which has adopted the new form of government has manifested any inclination, so far as reported, to return to the old.

What is termed the Des Moines plan has been the one most generally chosen. The Register of that city says one of the most noticeable things brought about by the change in form of government there is the difference in the appearance of the streets. The Des Moines plan has aroused a civic pride, the results of which are apparent on all sides. That the municipality with all its improvements is being run more economically than ever before was proved by the first annual report. Instead of exceeding its income by more than $130,000, as did the old council in the last year of its administration, the new not only lived within its income during the first year, but started on the second with a balance of over $40,000. The tax levy, instead of being raised, has been twice lowered by the present commission.

The commission form of government is on trial. Whether it will prove an unqualified success remains to be determined. Boston has provided itself with some of the machinery through its advisory finance board, but this is not working with the utmost efficiency as yet, owing to the fact that the chief engineer and his co-laborers have not established harmonious relations. Much depends on the men, after all, whatever may be the system adopted. In the largest municipality in the country, where "graft" and political pull have held sway for years, one man has taken the helm and by honest and earnest endeavor gives promise of effecting a revolution that will bring into operation a clean and economical government.

Perhaps the greatest benefit resulting from the commission idea is that it has aroused public interest and developed more care in the administration of municipal affairs.

THE times change and we are changed with them. If used to be that the town advertising "the biggest, noisiest Fourth of July celebration" caught the crowd. Now there appears to be a polite rivalry springing up between cities and towns to see which can offer, prospectively, the quietest form of celebration.

IF NOTHING save the Rush-Bagot convention, prohibiting the presence of war vessels on the Great lakes, shall interfere with the plans of those who are striving to obtain a fair share of naval contracts for Great lakes shipyards, then the obstacle in their way cannot be considered very serious. For this convention has already been greatly weakened by certain concessions on the part of the United States and Canada, while, entirely regardless of the shipbuilding project, steps have been taken to modify its provisions to a still greater degree if not to suspend them altogether. Moreover, the hull of a war vessel, or any uncompleted part of a war vessel, such as the Great lakes shipyards could turn out, would hardly be construed as coming within the prohibitory clause of the Rush-Bagot treaty.

It appears from the report made by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop, in response to a resolution of Congress, that there are more than a dozen shipyards on the lakes with plants that would enable them to build hulls and machinery and to launch naval vessels of the maximum size capable of being taken through the St. Lawrence waterway system to the sea. The minimum-sized lock of that system would, according to Mr. Winthrop, permit the passage of any gunboat now in commission.

There is no present expectation, of course, that any contracts for the construction of the larger type of naval vessels will go to inland waterway shipyards. What the future may bring forth in this regard will depend to a great extent on what the future may do for the inland waterways. This phase of the matter, however, might as well be disregarded now. The Great lakes shipyards are at present simply asking for such a share of the naval construction work as they are capable of handling. The request seems reasonable.

It is to be hoped that Halley's comet will "look pleasant, please," on May 18 during the fifty-eight minutes when it will be crossing the sun's face so that we may secure a good photograph by which to remember it until it shall return once more from its 3,100,000,000 miles' trip around the sun.

Our National Game

BASEBALL, the great American game, is gaining in favor yearly, not only at home, but abroad. The round-the-world tour of the United States fleet of battleships was largely instrumental in introducing the sport into other lands. It has been taken up eagerly at Buenos Aires and elsewhere; there is a lively interest in baseball in Japan, this being due principally to a visit to that country of the University of Wisconsin team. The national game has gone to the Canal Zone with our men; there are several teams in Cuba, where the attendance on games is reported as tremendous. Over our northern border, Toronto has a league team, while Montreal enjoys the sport. As for Europe, it is likely to be invaded during the coming year by the president of the Chicago American league club and his players.

It is not strange that this pastime should be exceedingly popular. The game is full of life, and both players and spectators enjoy it. The former enter into it with enthusiasm, it exercises all their muscles and faculties, is comparatively free from liability to injury, and affords opportunities for brilliant play and winning honor in competition. To the onlookers a match gives entertainment for an hour and a half of such keen and constant interest that he who removes his view from the field of action for only a moment may fail to witness a very important play. Baseball is not difficult to comprehend, though it has many fine points, and a person can find pleasure in the first game he sees.

Costly leagues, both national and sectional, have been built up, with fine grounds and stands. These embrace the commercial and professional features of baseball, and they put into circulation many thousands of dollars annually. Every season adds to the number of amateur devotees of baseball, the growth being steady and including boys of all ages. Judging from the orders already placed for the paraphernalia of the national game this spring, as reported by dealers, the year 1910 promises to be a record-breaker in baseball.

Developing Honduras

OF THE Central American republics Honduras is the most backward because almost wholly lacking in communications. Nor is there much to be hoped from the completion of the Pan-American railroad that will in the not distant future connect this country with the isthmus of Panama, because Honduras, except for a few miles, lies to one side of the direct route along the Pacific shore. By its peculiar configuration it shares with Yucatan and eastern Nicaragua a certain isolation which has hitherto reacted on its prosperity and civic progress. It is, in fact, one of the most undeveloped countries not only in the western hemisphere but in the world, and must remain so unless its isolation is broken down by enterprises that will aim at the exploitation of its resources without reference to the value of its geographical situation on isthmian America.

At present it is necessary, in order to reach the capital, Tegucigalpa, from New Orleans, via Puerto Cortes, to provide bedding and servants for the seven-day journey on mule back. Puerto Cortes, the principal Atlantic port of Honduras, can be reached from New Orleans, Tampa and Mobile on good steamers flying various flags, and from there the only Honduran railroad runs some fifty-seven miles into the interior, to San Pedro, the largest commercial center of the republic. But from this point all communication ceases except over bridle paths, for Honduras, not being situated conveniently for transisthmian transit, no wagon roads were built by the Spaniards from the Caribbean ports to the Pacific. The only way in which the capital can be reached in a cart or by a short mule trip is from the south, where Honduras looks out on the Pacific for a brief space at Fonseca bay; if an automobile service were established between San Lorenzo and Tegucigalpa, pending the construction of a railroad, the center of the republic would be thrown open and through contact with the outside world political intrigue in Honduras, due to Nicaragua's and Guatemala's rivalry for predominance, would be made less easy and probably cease to be a matter of course.

Of the various concessions for railroad construction the most important is that for a line to connect Trujillo Bay, a northern port, with Juticalpa, and thence with the capital. Numerous branches are contemplated that will open up virgin territory rich in minerals and hard woods, besides an unrivaled cattle-raising country. As Trujillo, which possesses ample facilities for handling increased traffic, is only four days' sail from New Orleans and forms the gateway to regions that lie outside the political earthquake zone, the chances for peaceful and steady development of commercial, agricultural and industrial interests appear favorable, more so, perhaps, than in more attractive Central American regions—once northern enterprise shall have introduced an element of ambition.

THE prominent clubwoman of New York city who in a recent statement declared that she is "not a lady," that it distresses her to be so called, and that to her way of thinking "the definition of a lady is a female who has neither the brains to think with nor hands to work with," has served to call attention to a matter that has been the basis of widespread and long-continued discussion. The definition which she gives is, of course, far from being correct, but it is no more faulty, perhaps, than are many others, if the popular and widely differing uses of the word "lady" are to be accepted as indicating what is believed to be meant by the term. According to the dictionary makers, a lady, where the word is not used to designate rank, is primarily "a refined and well-bred woman; the correlative to gentleman in corresponding uses."

Some one has remarked that in a democracy like America, where there are so few gentlemen, it is surprising to find so many "ladies." But it is said in England, where the term "lady" is a title of nobility and where the word has a definite, well-understood meaning, there are perhaps even more "ladies" than in America. "Lady detectives" and "young lady waitresses" frequently figure in the newspaper advertisements. However, both in England and America the number of ladies is decreasing as the number of well-informed, better bred women increases. No doubt the numerous women's clubs that are doing such splendid work in correcting many of the faults and foibles of society, are to be credited for much of the betterment that is apparent in this particular matter. The very designation, "woman's club" serves to give standing and character to the better term for expressing the meaning that it is meant to convey. "Ladies' club" would fail to set forth the aim of these organizations, which in most instances are formed for the purpose of doing more or less substantial things that are worth while to the communities in which they flourish.

The women and girls of today are going into the professional and business world to an extent never before attempted. The very conditions surrounding them make it obvious that if they are to compete on an equal footing with men, and to ask no favors because of the fact that they are of another gender, they must be women, as men are men. The girls of today are getting their higher education at the women's colleges. A "ladies' college" would no doubt suffer in the matter of attendance, because of its name. The time when almost every woman was a "lady" has passed. To be a true woman is the newer and better aspiration.

THE political excitement which Colonel Roosevelt, who has but slightly touched the edge of civilization, is already stirring up is perhaps a foretaste of what is likely to occur when he once gets back into the very midst of the world's work. Italy, France, Germany and England, to say nothing of the United States, all offer fine fields in which he can if he will set the people by the ears. However, having carried the war into Africa he may not care to carry it beyond there.

The Minimum Tariff for All

WHETHER the so-called punitive clause in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law is wise or unwise, just or unjust, cannot now be very well determined. There is no evidence going to prove that it has won for us any concessions from foreign nations which we could not have secured otherwise. At all events, it will not be necessary to enforce it, unless in the rather improbable event of some foreign nation deliberately violating the terms of the arrangement under which our minimum rates are granted. The most delicate of all the problems arising from the adjustment of the new tariff to the tariffs of other countries—that which presented itself in Canada—has been solved. Canada, Australia and other countries with which negotiations have been retarded for one reason or another have now been proclaimed entitled to our lowest tariff rates. We are at commercial peace with all the world.

The tariff board has contributed in no small measure toward bringing about this very desirable conclusion. For the first time we have had in operation a bureau competent to scan the civilized world and to reach an intelligent and a fair decision with regard to the treatment our producers, manufacturers, and exporters were entitled to under the laws of the different nations. The state department, through tactful management, and the President, by reason of his widely-known and widely-respected desire for an equitable and amicable adjustment of all differences, have been the other important factors in this case.

Perhaps this experience may teach us, at last, that we are pursuing a short-sighted policy in refusing to grant Canada the very widest possible measure of freedom in her commercial intercourse with us. It ought to have been made clear during the recent crisis that Canada, much better than we, could have entered upon the tariff war that was threatened and dreaded on both sides of the border. But, aside from this, and far above it, is the consideration that we cannot, great as we are, afford to be unfair in our treatment of Canada or of any other country.

THE Museum of Oceanography founded by the Prince of Monaco at Monte Carlo is said to be unique and extensive, containing every living form to be found in the sea. It must indeed be a great collection if it contains specimens of all the tremendous sea-serpents that are seen during the summer along our shores at divers' places.

OWING to the marked increase in the prices of many of the necessities of life, it has appeared almost inevitable that there would be an advance in wages. This has already taken place in a number of industries. Four big corporations have within a few days raised the pay of their thousands of employees to an extent that will increase expenditures by nearly $20,000,000 yearly. The Pennsylvania railroad system ordered a voluntary advance of six per cent in the wages of permanent employees who now receive less than $300 per month, and the United States Steel Corporation makes a similar increase. This gain on the part of the workman will not offset entirely the present difficulty in providing for his family when everything he has to purchase is so high, but it will help. The generally prosperous condition of the railroads is said to make it possible for them to advance wages.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, however, finds that the increase it recently granted to its employees has necessitated the raising of its passenger rates, and the company has issued a new schedule to go into effect on May 1. The Boston & Maine may follow suit. Freight rates will not be affected, and mileage books are not to be changed, it is said, but branch lines will have to pay more. The fare from Boston to New York has been increased ten cents; five cents is to be added on tickets costing over $1.50; fares on short hauls of twenty to thirty miles will not be altered.

In this rearrangement of conditions between companies and employees the public will, of course, have to foot the bill. The fact might not be so noticeable were tolls increased on freight, but when the passenger is forced to put down more money for his ticket the new burden becomes apparent at once. The change may shift it to one who is more able to bear it than the laborer. And the adjustment of wages to prices will not stop here; many other changes are likely to follow soon.

The World's Greatest Lumber Port

PORTLAND, Ore., now lays bold claim to the record for shipping more large lumber cargoes than any other port. Fifteen years ago Portland's lumber shipping business was comparatively insignificant; twelve years ago the first 1,000,000-foot cargo went out of the river. In a single month of this year the lumber exporters of Portland sent out over 14,000,000 feet and the exports for every month of the year will probably average more than this. In the meantime, it appears, Puget Sound ports have been declining in respect to lumber shipments. The supply of timber immediately available to these ports has been greatly reduced. To obtain the supply now necessitates going farther into the woods, and under the changed conditions the neglected timber districts of the Columbia river have been thrown open to the lumberman. The Columbia territory is tributary of course, to Portland, and the trade which has grown out of the opening of the new lumber field has given the prestige claimed to that port.

But it is admitted by Portland that at the present rate of tree felling the new supply will soon be exhausted and exports will cease. This is the side of the matter that throws a shadow over the other side, even when it appears at its brightest. If only the growth could be fostered and husbanded in a way to keep the supply constant!

THE crowned heads of Europe, preparing to give Colonel Roosevelt the best entertainment they can provide would themselves be very much entertained, no doubt, could they attend the annual Wyoming celebration at Cheyenne, which the colonel will view the last week in August. The "Wild West" shows that find their way over to Europe are said to be very tame indeed, when compared with the genuine hand-picked article just brought in fresh from the ranch.

For this increase in railroad employees' wages, the "ultimate consumer," as usual, must finally settle the bill.

Advance in Wages and Fares
